Mill Blast

Gallantry Costs Hero Bad Burns

By MAY BALDWIN

CAMPBELL RIVER—A Victoria man was most seriously injured of five hurt here in a "black liquid" blast Sunday—because he turned back to help a fallen fellow-worker.

Kenneth McHugh, 33, of 435 Durban Road, Victoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McHugh, is in satisfactory condition at Campbell River Hospital with burns from the highly caustic liquid.

Also in satisfactory condition in the hospital are William Scott, utility man, and Joseph Bundy, shift engineer and former Campbell River village commission chairman.

NOT BURNED

Released after treatment were Jack McMukdroch, injured by the explosion but not burned, and Allen Rollins who was entering the plant at the time and who suffered cuts and burns to the face.

The explosion occurred at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the recovery plant of Elk Falls Paper Mills, a Crown Zellerbach subsidiary at Duncan Bay, two miles north of here.

LEFT PLANT

Witnesses said later that Mr. McHugh had left the plant following the explosion when he realized Mr. Scott was still inside.

He went back and found that the other man was hurt and unable to move.

Mr. McHugh ignored his own injuries to help Mr. Scott from the building.

SIFTING WRECKAGE

While cause of the blast had not been determined last night, a team of government, manufacturers' and company inspectors had spent the day Monday sifting through the wreckage of the boiler that exploded in a spray of the "black liquid."

Pending the results of the inspection, there was no indicated similarity between this explosion and one seven weeks ago in a recovery plant on the Mainland, when seven men were killed.

NEARBY SITE

Company officials were grateful that the blast occurred on a Sunday. On a weekday, its force would have been directed straight into an adjoining construction site where 30 or 40 men are building a mill extension.

No flames could be seen by first witnesses at the scene, but coils of thick black smoke belched from every crevice of the building.

This smoke hampered Campbell River firemen in containing the blast.

Couldn't Stomach His Spare Thumb

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP)—Robin Gray, 20-year-old bricklayer, pleaded guilty to burglary Monday. He told the magistrate's court he needed money to have his thumb removed from his abdomen.

Gray said, and the prosecution agreed it was true, that 13 years ago his thumb was severed in an elevator accident.

A surgeon grafted an index finger to the stump of the thumb. Then, thinking the severed thumb might be needed some day, he grafted it to the boy's abdomen to keep it alive.

But Robin told the court, the thumb on his tummy hurts, especially when he bends over.

He arranged for an operation to have it removed but found he couldn't pay for it. So he broke into a store and stole six cameras and a quantity of cigarettes.

The verdict: Two years on probation.

$75 a Month For Employers

Commons Told Incentive Plan

OVER-45 BONUS

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has unveiled the details of its $5,000,000 "experimental" program aimed at putting older unemployed workers back on the job.

The incentive is a bonus from the federal government of up to $75 a month for a full year, to be paid for all approved older workers who are given work and training under the new program. The program was first disclosed in the budget speech June 13.

Spelling out the program in a statement in the Commons Monday, Labor Minister MacEachen appealed to employers in Canada to create as many job opportunities as possible for unskilled workers in the 45-and-over age bracket.

WILL GIMMICK WORK?

Michael Starr, Labor minister in the previous Conservative government, accused the government of announcing policies before it had worked out programs.

"It now remains to be seen whether this new gimmick for the employment of the older worker will work out as well as it is hoped . . . or whether it will be just another flop in the gimmicks promoted by this government," he said.

STUDY SWEDEN

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said the program will have to be studied to see whether it "does any damage in dealing with this problem." He suggested Mr. MacEachen visit Sweden to discover how full employment is provided there for all age groups.

Mr. MacEachen said the program, which begins Nov. 1, is designed to assist long-term unemployed men and women older than 45 years to regain jobs and to secure new skills.

TWO-MONTH PERIOD

The incentive payments—50 per cent of the monthly wage paid or $75 a month, whichever is less—will be made to employers who hire older workers between Nov. 1 and Jan. 31, 1964. However, the payments will not be made until an eligible employee has been on the job for three months.

The incentive payments apply only to workers who are insurable under the Unemployment Insurance Act. Public service workers at all levels of government from municipal through to federal are excluded, as well as domestic and farm workers.

Nightmare

Canyon Frees Victims

CHIRUAHUA, Mexico (UPI)—The Barranca de Cobre, a copper canyon nightmare of steep cliffs and treacherous water, yesterday gave up unharmed 14 American adventurers, who had been feared lost and starving since Sept. 28.

Bush pilot Jesus Acosta Munoz said the 14 explorers, including two women, and three Mexicans who went to their aid, emerged safely at the northwestern Mexican village of Creel, 160 miles west of Chihuahua.

The group from Utah, California and Pennsylvania entered the canyon Sept. 25 to gather scientific information.

A search by airplane, helicopter and burro began Saturday after James C. Dean of Salt Lake City, an original member of the party, stumbled back to civilization and said the adventurers were running out of food and might be lost.

Elk's Head May Be Live

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Cranbrook Mayor George Haddad bet Highways Minister Gagliardi an elk's head against a mess of Kamloops trout and a pair of snowshoes that the 40-mile Salmon-Creston cutoff wouldn't be open this year.

Mr. Gagliardi says the cutoff will definitely be open next weekend, and "I'll hang the head in my shack out back."

But Mayor Haddad may have the last word—he's never said the head would be stuffed.

Vancouver Hoodlums

Party-Crasher Admits Kicking Girl in Head

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ervin Williams, 18, was given a three-month jail sentence Monday when he admitted kicking a girl in the head while 50 youths tried to crash her party Saturday night.

"This sort of offence by a small minority of teenagers has got to stop," said Magistrate Cyril White in handing down the sentence.

Williams admitted standing on the hood of a car and kicking Michele St. Denis, 17, in the head. She was taken to hospital for treatment of a severe bruise. Her brother suffered a three-stitch gash on the head from a blow by a beer bottle.

Williams was charged with assault and two counts of property damage.

HELD, PUNCHED

In another incident, Alex Henderson, 40, said he was held and punched by seven youths who attempted to crash a party in his home.

In another section of the city, 10 youths ripped fences and smashed a window and drainpipe at the convent of the Sacred Heart, the adjacent Roman Catholic church and school and a nearby home.

Dreaded Poison Feared in Deaths

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A man and his daughter died Monday after eating smoked whitefish from a Kroger's supermarket and doctors feared the dreaded "E" strain of botulism poisoning had stricken several others.

A 42-year-old man lay in critical condition in hospital and a woman and her two children were in a condition "bordering on critical."

Kroger's ordered the suspected product removed from its 1,275 stores in 22 southern and midwestern states. The Food and Drug Administration in Washington said the packers had notified distributors across the U.S. to destroy all stocks of the smoked fish.

Haiti—After Flora

Hurricane Kills 4,000 Haitians, Scourges Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (CP)—Vicious, tempestuous Hurricane Flora has killed 4,000 persons in Haiti, that country's health ministry announced Monday night.

In a telephone interview, Health Minister Girard Philippeaux said 2,000 persons have been officially registered as dead, but that the toll will total 4,000 when all reports are in.

Flora first hit Haiti last Thursday, and rain was still falling there Monday night, but the hurricane's main attack was concentrated on Haiti's close neighbor, Cuba, where it has been paying a costly return visit after scourging the island on its way northward a week ago.

ENORMOUS DESTRUCTION

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported from Moscow that an enormous number of homes had been destroyed in Cuba, and that tens of thousands of persons had been evacuated from the easternmost provinces to areas less severely hit. The onslaught was seen as an economic disaster because of crop damage.

SIX DEAD IN CUBA

Havana radio said at least six deaths had been confirmed in Cuba as a result of the hurricane, which early in its life killed 30 persons in Tobago.

In Jamaica, seven lives were lost as Flora's tailwinds hammered the island with floods, rain and gales. A family of three drowned in Kingston when their home on a gully bank was destroyed.

MILLIONS DAMAGE

Most Kingston homes were without water for drinking and total damage on the island was expected to hit about $15,000,000.

Early reports from Haiti had listed Flora's death toll at more than 400, but the figure leaped dramatically Monday.

Citizens of Port au Prince were in fear of a new hurricane—Gerda—which weathermen there told them could be worse than Flora.

Cubans Fire On Castro But Miss

LONDON (UPI)—A British foreign ministry spokesman said yesterday the British ambassador in Havana reported militia anti-aircraft batteries recently fired by mistake on a sightseeing plane carrying Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Soviet Ambassador Alexander Alexeyev.

The plane was not hit.

Supply Bill Blockade Lifted by Creditistes

OTTAWA (CP)—The Creditiste blockade of the government's interim supply bill was lifted Monday night, minutes before the normal Commons adjournment hour.

Gilles Gregoire, House leader of the Creditiste group, earlier left a meeting of the Commons privileges committee which had been considering the demand of the 13-man group for recognition as third-largest opposition party in the Commons.

He told the Commons he had found the committee was "not serious at all." But he added that the Creditistes had confidence the government would solve the problem.

At that, a series of speeches by Creditiste members ended. A preliminary resolution to grant interim supply to the government to cover its October and November expenses was passed five minutes before the 10 p.m. EDT adjournment.

BILL RUSHED

Two minutes later the money bill, for a total $747,489,955, was introduced. With unanimous consent it was hustled through all three readings and was passed just at 10 o'clock.

The bill now goes to the Senate for approval.

The supply resolution had been before the Commons for three days and at the outset the 13 Creditistes led by Real Caouette had said they would block the measure until they had been given the recognition they sought as third-largest opposition party.

BREAK BLOCKADE

Earlier Monday, after the government presented a motion which would have produced around-the-clock sittings of the Commons to break the blockade, Creditiste leaders indicated they would end their delaying tactics.

The recognition issue then went before an evening meeting of the 29-man privileges committee. As it was debated there, a series of Creditiste members continued speaking in the Commons, preventing passage of the supply resolution.

Mortality Heavy In Sockeye Run

VANCOUVER (CP)—A disastrous mortality rate among homing sockeye salmon has wiped out about 90 per cent of this year's escapement of potential spawners to the Chilkot River, one of the major sockeye rivers of the Fraser River system.

This was disclosed by the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission Monday when it said of a total escapement of 800,000 sockeye, an estimated 720,000 died without spawning.

The commission said that disaster to a lesser degree also struck the Stellako River, a tributary of the Nechako in Northern B.C. where the total number unspawned salmon will exceed 100,000.

At the beginning of the season the runs of sockeye were 10 days earlier than usual. And because of a strike by B.C. coast fishermen the escapement was extremely heavy.

Quebec Bomb Death

Terrorists Jailed

MONTREAL (UPI)—Top members of the bomb-terrorist FLQ were given sentences ranging up to 12 years in prison Monday in a brief trial punctuated by an unexplained explosion.

The loud report, which shook the courthouse building, came just as one of the defendants was being ordered to serve 12 years for manslaughter in the bomb death of a nightwatchman here last April 20.

But authorities indicated there was no evidence the blast was connected with the trial. The explosion was believed to have been set off by construction workers preparing the site for a new courthouse nearby.

Among the stiffest sentences were those of Gabriel Hudon, 21, a draftsman, and Georges Schoeters, a native of Belgium who admitted masterminding the FLQ's bombing activities here and elsewhere in Quebec province early this year.

Schoeters drew sentences totaling 10 years in prison on reduced charges involving the placing of dynamite. He earlier had been charged with non-capital murder.

Jacques Groux, 19, a photographer, was given a total of 10 years for manslaughter and other charges; Raymond Villeneuve, a total of 12 years, and Yves Labonte, 19, a total of six years.

Flora Kills 4,000

The U.S. weather bureau in Miami said, however, that no new hurricane was in sight and that rain falling in Port au Prince was probably from Flora. The bureau here also said the next hurricane will be called "Ginny"—in the U.S. at least.

Haiti's capital city was isolated from the provinces by flooded roads and was unable to send help to the worst stricken areas.

Philippeaux said Haiti had asked the U.S. Navy for help and he expected disaster survey teams would start work this morning.

Since leaving Haiti, Flora's destructive gales and torrential rains have done damage mounting toward proportions of economic disaster for Fidel Castro's Caribbean satellite of the Soviet Union.

Half of Cuba's crops, including the vital sugar needed for trade with Russia, was reported by the national Agrarian Reform Institute to have been laid waste by wind and rain.

And, 24 hours later the killer hurricane still sat astride Cuba for the fourth straight day.

In Miami, Emilio Nunez Portuondo, former Cuban delegate to the United Nations Security Council and now an anti-Castro leader, declared: "In four days, this storm has done more damage to Fidel Castro's economy than the anti-Communists have been able to do in more than four years of sabotage. Nature is stronger than man."

"The Cuban economy already was in desperate shape. Now, the situation may be impossible."

Premier Fidel Castro was reported to have gone from Havana to Las Villas and Oriente provinces to survey the damage.

A ham radio operator in Miami, Charles Champagne, said he picked up a call from a telephone company shortwave station in Oriente for vaccine to combat a possible typhoid outbreak.

The station also reported, he said, the only main route running the length of the island, is under water and impassable.

ing the damage, and the smoke and fumes combined to send Fire Chief Oscar Thulin to hospital.

Two other men working nearby had narrow escapes. Charles Langford, a cleanup man, was working outside the plant at a boxcar, and was unhurt. Bernard Carlyle also escaped injury but suffered shock and was taken home by the RCMP.

Tom Conrad, first aid man on duty, rang for help to Leslie Hamilton who came immediately. The two worked together to help the injured and check personnel on the scene.

DRAWN TO SCENE

Company officials were among the scores drawn to the scene by the blast or the sight of the smoke.

Monday these officials expressed their thanks to Chief Thulin and his men, to the RCMP, to the construction men working on the extension and to mill employees who all hurried to help.

Of the three men in hospital, Mr. Bundy, who suffered burns to both hands, his back and the back of his neck, is expected to be released today.

Mr. McHugh, a graduate of Victoria College and University of British Columbia, suffered first and second degree burns to about 25 per cent of his body.

His parents left Victoria for Campbell River yesterday to stay until his release from hospital—expected, as is that of Mr. Scott, in a week or two.

The "black liquid" which caused the burns is a mixture of chemicals and wood impurities formed when pulp is digested to recover liquids used in pulp plants.

A company spokesman said new construction nearby was not damaged, and that work in the main section of the $85,000,000 mill would not be affected.

Noted B.C. Mariner Dies at 78

Capt. Harry Stewart Hughes, well known in B.C.'s maritime fraternity, died Sunday at 78. Funeral will be held in Hayward's chapel Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

He was born in Digby, N.S., and came from a long line of seafaring men, moving to Victoria in 1892.

He went to sea in 1901 in the Tees on her northern B.C. run. In 1905 he got his mate's ticket.

In 1914 he joined the Pacific Whaling Co. and 18 months later joined the lighthouse tender Estevan, where he stayed for 30 years with a break of three years in the Royal Navy. He became captain of the Estevan in 1940 and retired in 1950.

KYUQUOT — A Cossna 180 of B.C. Airlines hit a rock while coming in for a landing here Saturday. No injuries were caused, but extensive damage was done to one of the floats.

It is not yet known if this can be repaired or if a new float will have to be flown in.

Urgency Growing In B.C. Probe Of 'Black Liquor'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A sense of urgency is growing in efforts to take the deadly kick out of "black liquor"—a caustic mixture of chemicals and wood impurities recovered in pulp manufacture.

Seven men died in August when a pulp mill recovery boiler containing the mixture exploded at Woodfibre; six more men were burned Sunday in a boiler explosion at the Elk Falls pulp mill near Campbell River. Again, "black liquor" was involved.

NOT COMPLETE

Don Denham, chief inspector of boilers for B.C., said Monday: "There is an element of hazard and mystery to these boiler operations. Chemists and engineers are not actually completely aware of what goes on with the smelt."

"Some explosions occur two hours after everything is closed down. Possibly temperature and an unknown chemical action cause the smelt to explode. Possibly there is a critical point in temperature which may be the explosive point."

WILL FIND OUT

"We don't know — but we're going to find out."

Mr. Denham referred to explosions at Crofton; Hinton,

Be Careful of Diet In Liver Cirrhosis

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there anything I can eat or do to help my liver, which has been damaged by alcohol? Some people (not doctors) advise eating lots of liver.—J.M.F.

Well, let's face it. If the liver has been damaged by alcohol, there isn't much that can be done. However, you are still alive and kicking—or might I better say you are still alive and thinking. Which is the important thing.

Eating lots of liver is too simple an answer.

CORRECT DIET

A balanced diet of protein, carbohydrate and fat (plus, of course, vegetables, fruits, milk) and sometimes a vitamin supplement is correct, and it is very helpful. Liver is a good food, and you may very well include it if you like it, but there isn't any special value in it for cirrhosis.

In advanced cases, with swelling of the body and tissues, salt may have to be restricted.

If nitrogen wastes increase in the blood stream, meaning that they are not being discharged at a suitable rate, a decrease in the amount of protein may be necessary. (Your doctor will tell you about this—for most of us, the risk is usually too little rather than too much protein.)

But unless these complications (swelling, or nitrogen wastes in the blood) are present, the right diet is a balanced one. Meats need not be large, but they should be regular. That's important, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about eye transplants? I am slowly going blind. My eye specialist says nothing can be done, and that the trouble is from hardening of the arteries.—MRS. B. W.

Your specialist is correct. It is not possible to "transplant an eye." The transplants which you have heard about involve only a very small part of the eye, a portion of the cornea, or outer covering.

The cornea sometimes becomes clouded or scarred from disease or injury, and a new one can restore sight, just as replacing a ground glass window with clear glass lets you see through it. For the cornea transplant to be effective, the rest of the eye must be in good condition.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have uremia. What is it?—B.A.

It means that urea and other nitrogen waste products are not being adequately filtered out by the kidneys. In other words, kidney trouble.

Expulsion Facing Chinese

MOSCOW (AP)—A world conference of Communist parties will be called shortly and the expectation is that the Chinese Communists will be expelled from the international movement, a non-Soviet Communist source said Monday.

The informant said the build-up already has begun and the call probably will come from Moscow. There was no indication of a date but he said there is enough evidence to indicate an early call is likely.

Throughout the world, various Communist parties have expressed their support of the Soviet Union in its ideological battle with China. Almost every expression of support contained the statement that the Chinese are working against the international brotherhood of Communists.

China will be invited, as well as those backing Peking, notably the Communist parties from Albania, North Korea, Japan and New Zealand.

A program will be drawn up for the meeting, the source said, based strongly on the Soviet position. If the Chinese attend they will reject the program. After that, the source added, expulsion procedure will be started.

Kennedy Signs Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy formally ratified the limited nuclear test-ban treaty Monday, calling it "a clear and honorable national commitment" to the cause of man's survival.

Kennedy, in a 10-minute ceremony in the historic Treaty Room of the White House, said the agreement to ban all except underground nuclear tests is "great with promise" and marks a beginning that could lead to further East-West agreements. "If this treaty fails," Kennedy said, "it will not be our doing, and even if it fails, we shall not regret that we made this commitment."

Ben Bella Wins Pact

ALGIERS (UPI)—The defence ministry announced Monday Morocco had agreed to withdraw its troops massed "10 yards" from the Algerian frontier. The decision permits President Ahmed Ben Bella to concentrate his military strength against a Berber uprising in the Kabyle mountain area.

In talks at Oujda, Morocco, Acting Moroccan Foreign Minister Guedira and Algerian Foreign Minister Bouteflika also laid the groundwork for a meeting between Ben Bella and Moroccan King Hassan.

No Truck With A Lorie

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Peter Lorre has won his court battle to keep his good name to himself.

The veteran movie villain went to court after Eugene Weingang, 29, of Los Angeles, sought to have his name changed legally to Peter Lorre.

The judge denied Weingang's petition because "there is no question Weingang wants to cash in on the actor's reputation."

Lorre, who said he is "in my 60s," added he keeps busy in film and TV despite a 1950 heart attack.

'Cruel' Correspondents

Mme. Nhu Hits Back

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, South Vietnam's glamorous first lady, flew to the U.S. Monday to defend the policies of her nation's government.

Her visit came at a time when the policies of her brother-in-law, President Ngo Dinh Diem, are under sharp attack both in congress and the UN.

Mme. Nhu, just before boarding a New York-bound plane in Paris, denounced U.S. newsmen for their "criminal" coverage of the latest burning of a Buddhist monk in Saigon.

"I cannot understand the criminal and incredibly cruel attitude of America correspondents," she said. "Imagine that someone in France announced in advance that a woman was going to jump out of a window. What would you think of newsmen who, knowing about it beforehand, would satisfy themselves by watching the scene with cameras without alerting police?"

TELEPHONE CALLS
This was a reference to the fact Western correspondents had received anonymous telephone calls informing them to be at the central market place in Saigon at noon Saturday because "something would happen."

Mme. Nhu's unofficial mission is to solicit support for her brother-in-law's government from the UN and the American public. She has no scheduled appointments in Washington.

Gas Halts Students

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—White-helmeted riot police hurled tear gas grenades and black-uniformed navy frogmen fired into the air with automatic weapons Monday to break up a planned student march to protest the Sept. 23 military coup.

Seventy students were arrested and there were unconfirmed reports several had been wounded on the campus of Santo Domingo University in the columns of 1,000 students.

Can't Ignore Pill Says Dutch Cleric

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic cleric from Holland solemnly wagged a finger and said: "We cannot act any longer as if there is no pill in the world."

He referred to the contraceptive pill.

This and other developments in medical science are at the base of a dialogue now proceeding in the Roman Catholic Church concerning its attitude to medical aids in the field of birth control.

STATISTICS
In the United States, Britain, Latin America, India and elsewhere, the discussion continues, loaded with statistics about the population explosion and demands made on the consciences of individual Roman Catholics by the rigid law of the church in this area.

Birth control is expected to be debated in depth some time during the Vatican ecumenical council.

VIEW IN ENCYCLICAL
Catholicism always has maintained that marriage exists for the procreation of children.

The attitude of the church has not changed perceptibly but some Catholics now are asking for redefinition of the position.

Tories Stress 'Acceleration'

LONDON (CP)—The future of Harold Macmillan will not be the only topic when the Conservatives open their four-day conference at Blackpool Wednesday.

Tory strategists sought Monday to turn aside the unmerciful blizzard of speculation surrounding Prime Minister Macmillan which presents a picture of confusion in the face of the Labor party's new-found unity.

POLICY PAMPHLET

The Tories have turned out a new policy pamphlet with the title Acceleration—a term vaguely reminiscent of Labor Leader Harold Wilson's call for scientific "automation" at the Socialist conference last week. Macmillan, in a foreword, says the pamphlet records how at home the Tory program of social reform and economic reconstruction has gone forward at an accelerating pace.

Abroad, the Conservative peace policies through strength had resulted in an easing of East-West tensions, dramatically shown by the signing of the Nuclear Test-Ban Treaty.

A key role at the conference has been assigned to Iain Macleod, leader of the House of Commons and party co-chairman, one of the few top-flight Tories not prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Macmillan when he decides to resign.

Macleod will move a resolution stating:

"This conference pledges un-

Sheer Subterfuge

MR. PEARSON refuses to give Parliament the details of the nuclear warheads pact which his government has concluded with its U.S. counterpart. Only one conclusion can be drawn; that it would be unpalatable to public opinion.

He has thus committed the country to a course of action of which Parliament is unaware, a step which would be unthinkable in view of previous controversy over the Bomarc weapon were it not for his well-known bent for appeasing Washington.

Mr. Douglas rightly terms this an affront to Parliament, as it is to the nation at large, and condemns the claim of security as sheer subterfuge.

One of the easiest things a government can do nowadays is to put forth the plea of security to hide its actions. No security would be threatened by Parliament being allowed to know the extent of this pact. British arrangements with respect to its nuclear agreements with the U.S. are well known and have been widely publicized.

It would seem that the Pearson government does not want the people to know how far it has abridged national sovereignty by handing over control to America of the Bomarc weapon on Canadian soil.

If the idea is to gloss over this surrender it will fail, for sooner or later the nature of the submission will leak out to the detriment of the Pearson regime. And if the so-called security is supposed to keep Soviet interests from learning of the pact they will have a good idea of what's what.

The matter can scarcely end there, however, unless Mr. Pearson goes back on his pre-election stand on this subject. He was the great defender of Canada's "honor," submitting that Canada through the former government had already committed itself to accepting the warheads—which obviously it had not else there would be no need of a new pact—and that he would follow this obligation.

Mr. Pearson went further, however. He pledged that he would immediately proceed to have the agreement reneged by contrary action.

Having got the first part of his election bargain affected will he now carry out the second part? Or will it be such a secret also that Parliament and people hear no more about it?

Fringe Benefit

PARLIAMENT has got itself into a procedural fix by formally acknowledging that groups sit in the House as parties instead of as individual members. The latter has been a fiction, of course, but it prevented the situation which has arisen over Mr. Caouette.

Having taken a dozen of his fellows out of the official Social Credit ranks the Quebec ex-revoluter now claims that his Creditiste group should rank as a party and be given third opposition party precedence. This would put the Socred leader Mr. Thompson in the shade, since he has only ten followers at his command.

Mr. Thompson, correctly enough it would seem, points out that the Creditistes can't claim to be a party since they have no national standing and didn't contest the election in this guise. They are a splinter come lately.

Mr. Caouette says that if his demand is not met and his group is not given third party acknowledgment he will block House progress and force an election. The latter he can scarcely do off his own bat—some other oppositionists would have to go along with him—but his group can filibuster to an extent which can seriously impede the course of parliamentary business.

To a considerable degree at least Parliament has brought its dilemma on its own head. It was too wide-awake in its generosity when it not only raised the emoluments of M.P.s but added an extra $4,000 per annum to the person who led a party of 12 members or more. Mr. Caouette, it will be noted, managed to secure that many cohorts for his Creditiste group, leaving Mr. Thompson one short of this happy number.

There is no little magic in a fringe benefit of $4,000 a year, it may be deduced.

A Woman's Dreams

THOUGH MAN—the male human, that is—has been told through the ages that little girls are made of sugar and spice and everything nice, nobody has yet attempted to tell him what these young—or older—ladies dream of.

Perhaps it is just as well. Courageously, if not foolishly, a London newspaper has recently made an effort to pry into the secret ambitions of women of all ages. Its findings to date have been startling, to say the least.

One young Sussex matron, for instance, reveals that it is her fondest dream to drive a tank. Another has the desire to drive a Georgian stagecoach from London to Brighton, while one 85-year-old wants to ride on a camel.

Mrs. Wyton of Nottingham, who is 55 years old, reports that she would "love to drive a tractor and sing at the top of my voice," a secret hope only matched by Warwickshire's Mrs. Joan Williams who wants nothing else quite so much as "to sit in a state of splendid indifference driving an old-fashioned steam roller."

True, one or two ladies have shown somewhat less aggressive tendencies than those already mentioned. One wants the simple pleasure of launching a great ship and watching it slide down the slipway. "I can imagine nothing more exciting than being the person who pressed the button," she says. Another would like to have a holiday in Ireland in a horse-drawn caravan, leading a carefree life, cooking over a camp fire and wearing her oldest clothes.

However, only one real feminist has apparently shown up so far among the ladies prepared to expose their private dreams to the public. And that is a spinster from Warwickshire who simply wants to play the harp. "Every time I go to an orchestral concert I feel I would give anything to take the harpist's place."

It may or may not be significant that the only peaceful Walter Mitty-type ambition expressed by the ladies to date has come from an unmarried woman. Husbands perhaps should take some kind of warning from the fact that the majority of wives who have answered the newspaper's quiz seem bent on either wearing old clothes, singing at the top of their voices, driving a lethal vehicle or pushing an ocean liner into the water.

Whatever happened to all that sugar and spice?

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

THERE was a picture on the sports pages of the local press last week which showed "early birds" camped — on comfortable mattresses — outside the Los Angeles baseball stadium awaiting tickets for the home games of that city's Dodgers in the world series. Some of them had been there for days.

A tribute to star attractions, those beyond the ordinary. Something of the same was in progress in Glasgow when I was there a month ago, where supporters were clamoring for tickets to an approaching Rangers-Real Madrid match yet a week and more away.

The same desire to be an early bird will be manifest in Vancouver as the Grey Cup final draws near. Nothing succeeds like success and the magic word which gathers around famous names, whether of players or clubs. A similar reaction follows the scheduled appearance of the notables of the entertainment world, as many a disappointed patron finds out to his disappointment.

But at the moment it is the fascinating realm of the sports field which consumes the attention of yours truly. The foregoing samples of anticipation are being reflected in London, where expectations are high because of a representative football match at Wembley later this month between an English team and that of the international football association. In other words, between England and the rest of the world.

The hope is hardly likely that the English eleven can defeat the skill of this combination of global stars, although they will be out there fighting as never before for St. George and Merrie England, figuratively, of course. Their object will be to plant a ball in the opposition net, not to indulge in the sterner streams of combat in which their renown needs no embellishment.

In 1947 England beat a Rest team by 6 goals to one, in 1953 a 4-4 tie was the conclusion of another test of this nature. The progression these two results imply has advanced beyond the bounds of credence, almost. Certainly the fervid soccer followers of the British Isles would not have dreamed two decades ago that it would come to pass that the supreme art of the game would be found outside the land which gave this sport its birth. Yet such has happened, albeit some of the crack English clubs are dedicating themselves to matching the wizardry of the European continentals and the Latin-American masters of the game.

These newcomers to the soccer scene have developed techniques of ball control and fluid positional play far beyond the norm and raised the standards to new and surprising heights. And in the process are luring crowds in large numbers. No where either, it should be said in this context, do they win more public plaudits than from the fans in British stadiums.

Thus the excitement of the Wembley games on October 23, when a wider global eleven will take the field against the white-shirted Englishmen. Eighteen players have been chosen from which the Rest team will be selected, a roster of names which by their sound alone bespeak the spice of extraordinary attraction. Names like Garrincha, Pele, Santos, Eusebio — these summon as large an anticipation as the artistry which their owners are acknowledged to possess.

These Chileans, Brazilians, Spaniards, Italians, Negro as well as Latins, are the stars who cause ticket-seekers to haram the turnstiles in advance. As with the baseball fans and the devotees of theatre and the aesthetic arts, they know excellence when it presents itself.

The stars always provide their own attraction. There has always been a hard-nosed minority who see the matter quite differently. Take the Canadian-Chinese wheat deal for instance. Hungry Chinese never saw or got that wheat. It arrived at Chongqing, was distributed to major cities, and helped guarantee the food rations of soldiers, police and party members. Hence the Chinese government could afford to extract a little less grain from peasants and use slightly less forceful methods to take what it did. Thus Canadian wheat lessened political unrest and assured the loyalty of recognized supporters.

Recent Chinese food shortages, like those of the Soviets now, were partly due to bad harvests and freak growing conditions. But more fundamentally they have been caused by the Chinese and Soviets transferring too many workers from agriculture to industrial and military jobs. Because agriculture in both these nations is extraordinarily inefficient by North American standards, their agricultural labor forces are enormous in comparison with ours, but even so they have been proved too small for national self-sufficiency in food.

If Canada and the United States were regularly to ship large wheat tonnages to China and the Soviet Union, their governments could forget about food self-sufficiency and increase employment in industry by perhaps 10 to 20 per cent of their total labor forces. Their expanding industries could then produce more armaments and/or more manufactured consumer goods. Some labor released from the land

Wheat Deals With Communists

By DAVID MACLAREN

THE full economic, political and emotional consequences of the Canadian-Soviet half billion dollar wheat deal are now agitating the United States capital.

Neglecting wheat-bowl congressmen, who for obvious reasons would sell wheat to the Devil himself, two disagreeing groups are beginning to form. On one hand are the soft-hearted who want to relieve hunger and establish trade links with Communist states in the interests of peace. On the other are hard-nosed cold-war analysts who see no advantages for the West in subsidizing Communist industrialization and armament. Both Americans and Canadians need to have this policy debate settled according to their common long-term strategic interests.

There has always been an American compulsion—charitable and pretentious—to supply and save the world. The Hoover relief program after the First World War is a noble example. There are many too who believe that the surest way to thaw the cold war is to increase every possible trade and cultural link with Russia and China. These two fundamental emotions, combined with test ban euphoria and lively commercial interests, almost guarantee major U.S. support for any U.S. wheat deal with Communist states.

A hard-nosed minority sees the matter quite differently. Take the Canadian-Chinese wheat deal for instance. Hungry Chinese never saw or got that wheat. It arrived at Chongqing, was distributed to major cities, and helped guarantee the food rations of soldiers, police and party members. Hence the Chinese government could afford to extract a little less grain from peasants and use slightly less forceful methods to take what it did. Thus Canadian wheat lessened political unrest and assured the loyalty of recognized supporters.

Recent Chinese food shortages, like those of the Soviets now, were partly due to bad harvests and freak growing conditions. But more fundamentally they have been caused by the Chinese and Soviets transferring too many workers from agriculture to industrial and military jobs. Because agriculture in both these nations is extraordinarily inefficient by North American standards, their agricultural labor forces are enormous in comparison with ours, but even so they have been proved too small for national self-sufficiency in food.

If Canada and the United States were regularly to ship large wheat tonnages to China and the Soviet Union, their governments could forget about food self-sufficiency and increase employment in industry by perhaps 10 to 20 per cent of their total labor forces. Their expanding industries could then produce more armaments and/or more manufactured consumer goods. Some labor released from the land could also be conscripted into the armed forces.

China will certainly be producing atomic weapons before the end of this decade. Its first experimental nuclear device will probably be exploded this year or next. However, until it has far more research, development and industry than today, it will lack the aircraft and missiles needed to deliver nuclear weapons. Amusingly, Chinese industrialization certainly advances the date when China becomes a recognizable minor nuclear power. Given the chauvinism of Chinese leaders, and the areas into which China may overflow, neither Canada nor the U.S. can leave this Chinese nuclear capability. Short-term commercial gains may carry a high strategic price tag later.

The issues involved in selling wheat to the Soviet Union are somewhat different. The Soviets are already the second atomic force in the world today. There are many indications that they are trying of the arms race, plus the moon race, plus the economic aid race. Labor released from agriculture might conceivably be devoted to producing extra manufactured consumer goods only. Russians, better satisfied materially, might become more bourgeois and less anti-capitalist.

Regular wheat exports to the Soviet Union involve other difficulties though. There are not many Soviet goods that North American buyers want in exchange. There are limits to the fur, caviar, and vodka that they can absorb. So imports-in-exchange are likely to include specialized industrial goods from Soviet satellites.

Still another argument against wheat-for-gold deals with China and Russia is that this makes economic planning appear less inefficient than it is. Socialist planning almost inevitably leads to emergency deficits in specific goods from time to time. If these deficits can always be supplied from capitalist markets, bad economic planning becomes less unbearable to the peoples of Communist states. Despite these objections, there is a positive approach that the United States, Canada, and other major wheat exporters such as Australia might explore together, then with the Soviet Union, and later with the Chinese separately.

One interesting possibility is that the Soviet Union would regularly purchase food grains from major Western suppliers in fixed proportions and under three conditions. The first is that the Soviets do not stockpile grain but become dependent on imports. The second is that released agricultural labor be employed in producing consumer goods but not armaments. The third is that the Soviets develop adequate exports, other than gold, that Western markets really want at the effective prices charged for them.

Does the Free World really want Soviet gold so as to increase its monetary reserves more rapidly? This complex issue has been under debate in Washington at the annual meeting of the executive directors of the International Monetary Fund. Some cynics have suggested that, anticipating changes in international payment institutions that will largely demonetize gold, the Soviets are anxious to unload their stockpile before a price drop.

Still another argument against wheat-for-gold deals with China and Russia is that this makes economic planning appear less inefficient than it is. Socialist planning almost inevitably leads to emergency deficits in specific goods from time to time. If these deficits can always be supplied from capitalist markets, bad economic planning becomes less unbearable to the peoples of Communist states. East Africa

Profitable Wild Life

By ALASTAIR MATHESON
From Nairobi

GRIZZLED white hunters—veterans of the East African bush—like to gather in Arusha or Nairobi after a long safari, once their clients are on their way back to Europe or America. Inevitably, when the topic of their clients' follies becomes exhausted, talk veers to the future of white hunters in black Africa.

A few years ago, when the East African territories were still heading for independence, white hunters were very pessimistic about their future and about the future of the animals, upon whom their livelihood depends. They would discuss the atrocities of African poachers encountered on their safaris, and some would instance The Congo's Albert National Park where game preservation collapsed, like everything else, on the attainment of independence.

Today these white hunters are more cheerful. Not only is the safari business holding its own, but the African governments in Uganda and Tanganyika have shown that they are just as concerned about game preservation as the now-departed colonial officials. What is more, they have shown that they intend to enforce legislation to deter the poachers.

First to show his concern was Tanganyika's president, Dr. Julius Nyerere, when he addressed world experts on animal life at Arusha in 1961. Dr. Nyerere promised that Tanganyika would see to it that its wild life heritage would be safeguarded. Uganda last year followed suit when he reached independence—one of her first actions being a "cut-price" safari organization to divert hunting parties to areas where animals had become too numerous and were earmarked for slaughter anyway, as part of the game control program.

Kenya, although behind the others politically, leapt ahead in another respect, and went all out to make the African realize that wild animals were part of his birthright, too. It is difficult to convince an African in the bush that a wild animal is worth more alive than dead, especially when there is a ready market for the meat, and a small fortune (by local standards) from some Asian or Arab trader eager for a commission of poached ivory or rhino horn.

As part of its policy to enlist local support for game conservation and the tourist trade, Kenya has handed over several national parks to local African authorities to run in their own way. Fees collected from visitors go to benefit the local inhabitants, after costs of maintaining the reserves have been met.

In this way Amboseli is now being run by the Masai, and is one of East Africa's most popular game sanctuaries. A development of this enterprise is the new Mara Reserve, on the Kenya-Tanganyika border. In Northern Kenya, the Samburu have taken over a strip of the Uaso Nyiro River bank, complete with its large elephant, rhino and reticulated giraffe population. Similarly, to the northeast of Mount Kenya, the Meru now have their game reserve—the country where the lioness, Elsa, reared her famous cub.

Pushers in Swahili urge Africans to protect wild animals and request politeness and co-operation towards overseas visitors. As part of its campaign to make the local people more game conscious, the Tanganyika authorities also arrange student lecture tours to the famous Serengeti Park, and simple accommodation has been provided for those who cannot afford the "frills" demanded by overseas tourists. Uganda is building similar "youth hostels" in the Queen Elizabeth and other game areas.

All three African governments now rate tourism highly and each has its own minister supervising this activity. It is paying handsome dividends. This year tourists were worth $1,500,000 to East Africa as a whole and experts say it could rise to $24 million by 1970, provided the wild animals survive and more tourist accommodation can be provided.

Papa Doc

Enduring Master

By RONALD FAREY
from Haiti

HOW long can Duvalier last? The question is seldom asked aloud here, and seldom answered. But it lingers behind all thought.

A Haitian exile gave me a bitter opinion: "Make no mistake, Duvalier will govern until he is carried out of the palace. Feet first."

Few Haitians will dispute that, perhaps not even the president, Dr. Francois Duvalier, himself. His message, "I am the flag—one and indivisible," which burns in neon lights across the Champ de Mars, does not suggest an early abdication. Nor do the tanks and machine-guns which stand within the palace grounds.

What then are the chances of Duvalier being assassinated? Or turned out by a coup? Or being defeated by an invasion of Haitian exiles?

At first glance, "Papa Doc" seems to be thronged around with powerful enemies. He has incurred the opposition of the United States through the unconstitutional prolongation of his own presidency. He is opposed by the British, whose ambassador was asked to leave for protesting at the beating up of foreign subjects. He has incurred the hostility of his nearest neighbors.

The businessmen of Port-au-Prince loathe him, since his recent antics have killed the tourist trade and choked off foreign investment.

In the face of so much opposition, where does he find support? From the army?

Not really. It is widely believed he has lost the support of senior officers. From the voluntary militia—the "Ton-Ton Macoute"? In part, yes. They are now said to be as numerous as the army. Their ubiquity makes them efficient informers and effective instruments of extortion and intimidation.

But if Dr. Duvalier's forces are sufficient to bully his own people, their dedication is not thought to be strong enough to repulse a well-organized attack. "A thousand determined men could capture the capital," was one well-informed opinion.

If this is true, one must look beyond armed force for the reason for Duvalier's survival. One must take account of the disunity of Haitian dissidents abroad. One must give credit for Duvalier's ruthlessness.

One must also take account of the aura with which the president has succeeded in surrounding his own personality. He is discreetly immobile now, seldom venturing outside the palace and never appearing anywhere when his presence may be anticipated.

Most important of all is the attitude and history of the Haitian peasant. Every ambitious rebel in turn has appealed to him for support, yet each revolution has left the peasantry more miserable than before. Moreover, Dr. Duvalier himself is black like the peasant farmer, while the privileged caste that most hates him is predominately mulatto.

Haiti is indeed a bewildering country, fierce and beautiful, shrouded through with reminders of Africa. There are the palm-thatched village huts, the communal-day poverty, the black face of the farmer.

The Haitian woman, as she walks to market with a bag of charcoal balanced on her head, has an African rhythm. The hills, denuded by the ceaseless quest for charcoal, are another reminder of Africa. So, too, is the method of subsistence farming; after the break-up of the great French estates, the Haitians reverted to the only type of agriculture they remembered.

In Port-au-Prince itself, a few magnificent buildings and green parks are scattered between stretches of waste land, shops, street bazaars and crawling slums. This mirrors Haiti's reputation amongst the other Caribbean islands, where she is as famous for her achievements in dance, literature and art as for her voodoo, her poverty and the corruption of her political life.

Today it is scarcely possible to travel a mile without being stopped by ragged militiamen, who will search you for arms and perhaps extort a little of whatever you are carrying.

Britain's worst train wreck in years killed 112 persons and injured about 150 when two speeding expresses crashed into a commuters' train at Harrow, near London, 11 years ago today — in 1952. The impact left a 50-foot high mass of tangled wreckage as the first express, from Scotland, passed through one caution light and two stop lights to plow into the rear of the stationary train, and the second express, from London, coming in the opposite direction, hit the front end.

Dock Strike Talks On

MONTREAL (CP)—Federal mediator Judge Rene Lippe brought labor and management together at a downtown hotel Monday night for talks centring on a set of union proposals aimed at settling the St. Lawrence River dock strike that started last Friday.

At the meeting were top-ranking officials of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and the Shipping Federation of Canada, representing 38 carriers. The proposals first were relayed to the federation by the judge at a two-hour meeting earlier Monday. The representatives withdrew to "appraise" the demands and the mediator later reported to the union on progress.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Upper Great Lakes Shipping Ltd., of Toronto, faced by a second refusal by members of the Grain Elevator, Flour and Feed Mill Workers' union to load the freighter John Ericsson, decided to move the ship from the Continental grain dock in Calumet Harbor to the safety of a government pier.

Another Upper Lakes ship, the Howard L. Shaw, was damaged by a dynamite blast last month as it lay at anchor at the Continental dock.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Bulgaria has joined Czechoslovakia in a bid to make a grain purchase from the Canadian Wheat board, informed sources said Monday. A two-man Bulgarian delegation was said to have visited board headquarters last week.

Vacation Pay Crackdown

SIU Plan Revoked

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has cracked down on the maverick Seafarers' Union and 42 Great Lakes shipping companies for sidestepping a federal order in operating a vacation pay plan for sailors.

Labor Minister MacEachen told the Commons Monday that he has revoked federal approval of the vacation pay scheme run by the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) under its collective bargaining agreements with the shipping companies.

Mr. MacEachen ordered the Seafarers' Union to return all its vacation pay funds, estimated at more than $300,000, to the shipowners for remittance to sailors.

The move was announced amid mounting indications that the government is ready to proceed today or Wednesday with special legislation to clamp a trusteeship on the SIU and four other marine unions.

WORD AWAITED
The government is awaiting definite word from the Canadian Labor Congress that private talks aimed at drafting terms for a non-governmental trusteeship have collapsed.

A statement from the CLC council, inner cabinet of organized labor in Canada, is expected sometime today.

Barring a last-minute development, informants expect the statement to report that the CLC is unable to reach an agreement with the AFL-CIO on the terms of an effective private trusteeship as a substitute for government intervention.

Paul Hall, an AFL-CIO vice-president who heads the 75,000-member SIU of North America, is reported to be refusing to agree to guarantees sought by the CLC that would arm union-sponsored trustees with the power to clean up waterfront labor lawlessness and oust the SIU's Canadian president, Hal C. Banks of Montreal.

Not in Practice

Indian Officials Agree in Theory

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (CP)—Top Indians affairs officials agreed Monday in theory, but not in practice, the less federal interference in Indian affairs the better.

The discussion opened a week-long conference of U.S.-Canadian Indian affairs officials, the first such joint-government meeting since 1939.

U.S. Commissioner Philco Nash and Col. H. M. Jones, acting deputy minister for Canada's department of citizenship and immigration, said the goal of both governments is to "aid the Indian to work out his own destiny, but this destiny often depends upon the federal governments."

INDIAN TOMORROW

Jones said his government's goal for its 200,000 Indians is, "where we have a bureaucrat today, we want an Indian tomorrow."

Nash said: "The purpose of the conference is to discover new avenues of approach toward Indian policy."

He added Indians deserve equal treatment to that given other citizens on or off the reserves.

Separatism, Annexation

TORONTO (UPI)—A French-Canadian cabinet minister said Monday failure to solve Canada's racial impasse would result in the annexation of both Quebec and English Canada by the U.S.

Privy Council President Maurice Lamontagne, said separatism would mean for Quebec "economic stagnation, then political dictatorship and cultural impoverishment and finally annexation to the U.S. as a sort of liberation."

He added it would "naive" to think the rest of Canada could survive as a separate entity.

Servants May Rejoin Labor Federation

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. civil servants may rejoin the B.C. Federation of Labor which their organization left in 1960 when the government cancelled the check-off of union dues.

Delegates to the B.C. Government Employees' Association convention voted three to one to take a province-wide vote of their 8,000 members on the question.

POLITICAL FEAR

Some delegates expressed concern whether the federation was affiliated with the New Democratic Party and reaffiliation would imply civil servants were supporting the NDP.

Others said the association is a union and must belong to the federation, central labor body in B.C.

PAY BOOST

Other resolutions endorsed at the final session called for a 10 to 24 per cent pay increase; support of labor's objective of a 30-hour work week and double time for all overtime over four hours and on Saturdays, Sundays and statutory holidays. The convention also endorsed an

Fish Talks Called Off

TOKYO (AP)—Canadian, American and Japanese fishery delegates broke off their three-week long Tokyo parley Monday after failing to agree on a revision of the North Pacific fishery convention.

A joint communiqué said they recommended to their respective governments that a third round of talks be held in Ottawa "sometime next spring." The first round ended in Washington last June. The talks remained deadlocked over Japan's demands for a share of salmon and halibut resources in waters east of the 175th west longitude meridian.

Minerals Pipeline Planned to Coast

CALGARY (CP)—A Calgary firm intends to build a solids pipeline to Vancouver from Alberta to move minerals to the coast. It was announced Monday.

Designed to carry finely-ground commodities in paste form, the pipeline would possibly be the first of its kind, said Murdo C. McLeod, president of General Commodities Pipe Line Ltd.

Consultants to General Commodities are Williams Brothers Canada Limited of Calgary, which designed a 100-mile pipeline to carry coal slurry in Ohio.

Mr. McLeod declined to give an estimated starting date for construction.

"We could spend two or three years on economic and engineering studies," he said.

"There are a lot of bugs to be ironed out," he said.

He said annual capacity of the line is expected to be 3,000,000 tons of coal, 2,500,000 tons of sulphur and 500,000 tons of gypsum.

Mr. McLeod said the line is intended to carry sulphur from Edmonton, coking coal from Jasper National Park and nearby gypsum deposits in eastern B.C.

He said one of the participating companies is Native Minerals Limited of Calgary.

"We hope to be able to announce the rest of the participants in the next 10 days," he added. All were "very well known companies," and all but one were Canadian.

General Commodities' application for the line was made this month to the Alberta department of mines and minerals, but a spokesman for the department said Monday no decision has been made.

Most of the pipeline would be 20 inches in diameter and would follow approximately the route of the existing Trans-Mountain line.

9. Immediately before every KLM flight, the entire crew—from captain to stewardess—is examined by a KLM inspector on "in-flight" procedures. On a single trans-Atlantic flight, KLM's flying crews use four different check-lists. A pre-flight, after take-off, final and pre-landing check list.

10. After a KLM DC-8 jet is overhauled, it has to go through the manufacturer's technical test flight. If there is any shadow of doubt about its performance, it is tested and re-tested. On an annual jet test flight, KLM pilots put a DC-8 jet through a series of rigorous tests. They even fly it with only two engines working, to see how reliably it behaves.

11. Daily flights from Montreal to Europe. KLM has been established in Canada since 1946 and now has offices in principal Canadian cities. Something to remember: KLM also has several flights daily out of New York.

Symphony

Opening Concert Pleases

By BERT BENNY

Seemingly somewhat happier with Sibelius than with Wagner and with two movements of Brahms' Fourth Symphony rather than with the other two, the Victoria Symphony orchestra opened a most promising regular season Sunday afternoon.

Wagner's Prelude to Die Meistersinger was the first item. There appeared to be a slight lack of excitement and vehemence here.

FINLANDIA ELOQUENT

Sibelius' Finlandia was eloquent, decisive and compelling. And the playing of Sibelius' Valse Triste made the whole concert worthwhile.

The interest in Elgar's Serenade for string orchestra, second item on the program, is surely mostly academic; concerned with form, texture and so on.

GOOD INTERLUDE

However, sandwiched between Die Meistersinger and Finlandia—both very stirring—the serenade provided an interlude of relaxation.

The entire second half of the program was devoted to the Brahms symphony. The second and third movements proved more dynamic than the others; clearer and more incisive.

Otto Werner-Mueller conducted with his usual inspiring vitality. Violinist Otto Arnin will be the guest soloist with the orchestra at the next pair of concerts Oct. 27 and 28.

Something all Newlyweds should know ..... about financial success. The foundation of this much-sought-after goal is financial security and an ideal way to achieve security is through life insurance.

Should you buy now? Or can it be put off safely if both husband and bride are working? The wise thing is to buy now. Postponement till you're older means higher premiums and the risk of poor health striking in the meantime. Someday too, that second income will stop, making it doubly important that a new mother be guaranteed a living income—an income enabling her to devote full time to raising that precious new addition.

The best buy for the young family is permanent insurance. It provides that most important guarantee of family income. In addition, it's a savings plan providing cash in an emergency and funds for long-range objectives such as a university education for a son.

Call the Man from Manufacturers about financial success through insurance. You'll find him a competent and friendly adviser.

Last night's scores: Ottawa 17 at Calgary 47; Hamilton 26 at Montreal 14; Toronto 10 at Winnipeg 10; Edmonton 10 at Saskatchewan 26.

WINNIPEG—Hamilton Tiger-Cats scored two touchdowns in the final 34 seconds here last night to beat Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 26-14, and put the reeling Grey Cup champions perilously close to elimination in the Western Football Conference playoff race.

Quarterback Bernie Faloney marched the Tiger-Cats 75 yards for an unconverted touchdown by Jim Pace that gave them a 19-14 lead at 14:14 of the final quarter. Bombers, desperately needing a win in this one, gambled on the ensuing kick-off, and watched it blow up in their faces.

BACKFIRE—Quarterback Hal Ledyard fielded the kick-off, sent sharply to his right, then turned and threw almost the width of the field on an attempted lateral to spring halfback Leo Lewis. But the ball sailed over Lewis' head, veered crazily and bounced into the end zone, where Hamilton's Zeno Karez fell on it for a touchdown.

Result left Tiger-Cats tied for first place in the Eastern Conference and Bombers in deep trouble in the West.

TRAIL RIDERS—Bombers are now in fourth place, one point behind Saskatchewan Roughriders, who hold down the potential last playoff spot and have four games left to Bombers' three.

Roughriders play B.C. Lions Saturday in Vancouver, are at home to Calgary Stampeders Oct. 19, and finish their schedule in the east with games in Montreal and Toronto. Bombers play at Calgary Oct. 14, then finish with a home-and-home series against B.C. Lions.

FALONEY STARS—Faloney was brilliant as he led Tiger-Cats in last night's Grey Cup rematch. He completed 15 of 27 passes for 236 yards, taking the club 57 yards for their first touchdown, also by Pace.

Bombers led 8-0 at the quarter on a single by George Fleming, a touchdown pass from Kenny Ploen to Farrell Funston, and a convert that Fleming scored on a run when Ploen fumbled the snap.

Pace's touchdown made it 8-7 at the half, and Fleming kicked a field goal to start the fourth quarter.

Hamilton took over, 13-11, on a 30-yard touchdown pass to Garney Henley at 2:37, but Fleming got the lead back for Bombers with a 20-yard field goal at 11:31 that made it 14-13 and set the stage for the last Hamilton attack.

First downs: 23-19. Yards rushing: 128-139. Yards passing: 207-149. Passes made/attempted: 12-22-12-22. Passes intercepted by: 3-6/2. Punt/average yards: 9-0/47.1. Fumbles/lost: 1/1. Penalties/total yards: 5-36/531.

Stamps used the overland route sparingly, gaining only 110 yards, but they piled up 28 first downs to Ottawa's 18. Riders got 227 yards in the air and 135 on the ground but were trailing 47-10 just before the final goal try.

SECOND PLACE—Result boosted Stamps into a two-point lead over third-place Saskatchewan in the Western Conference and left the Riders tied with Hamilton in the Eastern Conference.

Lovell Coleman scored two touchdowns and Day and Jim Dillard each one in the first half with Larry Robinson adding the other four points with three converts and a wide field-goal try.

Carl Lunsford and Pete Manning scored second-half touchdowns, Robinson kicked two converts and a field goal and Stampeders picked up another two points on a safety touch.

Russ Jackson, early in the third quarter to make it 28-10, and Ron Stewart, on the last play of the game, scored Ottawa touchdowns. Racine converted each time.

Defeat for the Riders ended a five-game winning streak and was their first against a Western Conference club. They had previously defeated Winnipeg, B.C. Lions and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles Dodgers' World Series star, led the way again Monday, this time heading the voting for the annual Associated Press major league all-star baseball team.

The fireballing left-hander, a 25-game winner during the regular season, was named on 68 of the 71 ballots by baseball writers. He was the only Dodger player chosen for the all-star team. The voting was based on regular-season performance.

St. Louis Cardinals placed three on the team, first baseman Bill White, third baseman Ken Boyer and shortstop Dick Groat.

New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants each placed two men. Second baseman Bobby Richardson and catcher Yano Howard represented the Yankees while outfielder Willie Mays and Juan Marichal, a right-handed pitcher, made it for the Giants. Outfielders Hank Aaron of Milwaukee Braves and Al Kaline of Detroit Tigers rounded out the 10-man squad.

Monday's scores: Vancouver 4 at Seattle 3; Columbus 1, North Shore 0.

VANCOUVER—John Haar, who won the scoring championship last year in his first season in the Mainland Soccer League, isn't letting the step up to the Pacific Coast Soccer League slow him down one bit.

Haar, who scored twice one week ago, fired the only goal of the game Sunday as Columbus downed North Shore, 1-0, in Vancouver for its second straight victory.

Meanwhile, Vancouver Canadians came from behind in Seattle to trounce Hungarians, 4-2.

Volker Stoldt scored twice and John Gardiner and Kinnis Christie once for Canadians. Tommy Major and Tibor Budai handled Seattle's scoring.

Moscow, Stockholm, Prague Seen in Stanley Cup Future

By PAUL RIMSTEAD

TORONTO (CP)—Ulf Jansson, a Swedish sports writer, left for Stockholm Monday positive that he will return to North America some day for a unique Stanley Cup playoff series.

Jansson believes his country will challenge for the National Hockey League's championship trophy, making pro hockey a truly international sport.

"We should be able to field a team of NHL calibre in 10 years," said Jansson in an interview. "Professionalism in Sweden is just around the corner."

Jansson has been with New York Rangers during the last month, acting as an interpreter for Ulf Sterner, his protegee who will undergo a five-game trial with New York at the start of the regular season.

"I've got the best hockey player in Europe," says Ranger general manager Muzz Patrick. "Sterner is a good prospect."

Jansson said hockey has become the No. 2 sports attraction in Sweden next to soccer. He was at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night for the NHL all-star game, but the building didn't impress him.

HAVE BETTER ONE

"We have a new rink in Stockholm just built this year that seats 19,000," said Jansson. "It's filled for every game. And sometimes they play in the soccer stadium—there have been 30,000 watching two Swedish teams there."

Jansson credits Eddie Reigle, a Canadian coach who went to Sweden five years ago, with the improvement in Swedish hockey.

"Before Reigle came they knew nothing about forechecking or things like that," said Jansson. "Now these fellows (Sterner and two of his Swedish teammates, Carl Oberg and Kjell Svensson who tried out with Toronto Maple Leafs) are the first results of Reigle's work."

Sweden now has 10 Canadian coaches and they're always looking for more.

Oberg and Svensson returned to Sweden Sunday instead of accepting minor league contracts with Toronto.

Does Jansson like the professional style?

"Much better," he said. "And Swedish people would like it if they saw two NHL teams play. The players like it, too."

How did the Swedish players find the Canadian game in the pro camps?

"Better, much better than they expected," said Jansson. "It's so fast and really better in every way. They will be able to pass on their knowledge to the players at home."

And he warned that Russia and Czechoslovakia also are improving and perhaps interested in professionalism.

"Just think," mused Patrick. "Stockholm, Prague, Moscow, Los Angeles, San Francisco—all in the National League."

NHL Opens Season Tonight Little Room for More Fans

By DICK BACON

MONTREAL (UPI)—The National Hockey League, riding the crest of a fantastic box office success, opens its 46th season tonight with president Clarence Campbell predicting another banner season for the six-team circuit.

The lowly Boston Bruins, who finished last in each of the previous three seasons, have the distinction of being the first to start when they host the visiting Montreal Canadiens. Wednesday night the new look New York Rangers help the Chicago Black Hawks open their 1963-64 season.

Thursday Chicago is at Detroit, and Saturday, New York will be at Montreal and the defending league and Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs are host to the Bruins.

ALMOST CAPACITY

Last year the NHL played to 80 per cent of capacity, attracting 2,600,000 customers out of a possible 2,883,000 seats. Campbell, beginning his 18th season as head of the league, won't predict an increase in attendance this season but he puts it this way:

"All the normal indicators point to a highly successful season both from the standpoint of attendance and competition. I can't say everybody has strengthened themselves because it isn't true. But there are definite signs that the lower teams, Boston and New York, have improved their personnel."

MUCH TO MAKE UP

Both teams finished well out of the playoffs. The Rangers were 21 points behind the fourth place Detroit Red Wings and the Bruins, winners of only 14 of their 70 starts wound up 32 points back of the Red Wings.

The NHL was a two-division league last season. Only five points separated the first four clubs in the final standings with the Maple Leafs finishing one point ahead of the Black Hawks in a 63-61 win/loss.

Montreal was only three points off the pace at 79 points and Detroit just five points back of the Leafs at 77.

While the Leafs went on to win their second consecutive Stanley Cup championship, defeating Canadiens and Red Wings, while the Black Hawks were upset in the semi-finals by Detroit, many pre-season forecasters pick Chicago to finish on top this year. After finishing third four years in a row and second last year, observers around the league figure this should be Chicago's year.

GOOD TALENT

With new coach Billy Reay replacing the controversial Rudy Pilous, and a nucleus of such all-stars as Bobby Hull, Stan Mikita, Glenn Hall, Elmer Lipton and Elmer Vasko, and a solid supporting cast, it is felt they have enough to overcome the champion Leafs.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach will have to go without Carl Brewer, considered the best defenceman in the NHL, for the first half of the season while he recovers from a slow-healing broken arm suffered in the final game of the playoffs.

HOWE'S LONG?

Detroit, led by the incomparable Gordie Howe, and the Canadiens, faced with his biggest face-lifting in recent years, figure to have trouble keeping the Rangers out of the playoffs.

The once-powerful Canadiens have lost six regulars through trades and retirement. Coach Toe Blake is counting on such established stars as Jean Beliveau, Bernie Gosselin, Henri Richard and Gilles Tremblay to replace the Habs shake a complacent rap Blake has hung on them.

ON UPGRADE

The Rangers look to be the most improved team in the circuit. They traded for six-time Vezina Trophy winner

Jacques Plante to bolster their netminding and have strengthened themselves down the middle with the addition of two other Canadians, Donnie Marshall and Phil Goyette. The Broadway Blueshirts are hoping to get another good year out of the once-peerless defenceman, Doug Harvey, who at 39 has to be rated a question mark for the full season.

Daily Get-Even Returns Sandown's Finest Lure

By JIM TANG

Horse-racing is ever a guessing game but there is no Underdog machine in existence which could figure out which favorites are likely to win this year at Sandown Park.

About the average number of mutual choices are making it to the front for the big end of the purse but settling on the right one at the right time is something which has Sandown punters reeling, but coming back for more when they look at the get-even prices being posted every day.

This is the difference. Sandown's problems are the problems at any track but few consistently offer so much in return when favorites fail.

WHO'S SURPRISED

Yesterday, again bright and sunny with track conditions at the good stage before the eight heats were run, was a typical 1963 Sandown afternoon.

Things got away to another of those "why-didn't-I?" starts when overlooked Green Again and passed-over Designer ran one-two with favored Lady Gallant looking a bit bedraggled.

The straight price was $14.70 and the quinella an unusually healthy $90.40.

FRESH UPSTART

It was enough to send most scurrying to recoup on Gulf Island. Wise Balladier or Dean Jessop in the second race. And so a dark chestnut named Bettina K, which had raced only three times this year, came barreling down the stretch to give trainer Don Carley his first win of the meeting.

Gulf Island was a fading sixth. Wise Balladier an out-casted second, Jessop a trying third and most everybody else faded at the post. Those who found reason to back the winner got $43.90 for their perspicacity, or whatever it was which prompted them.

THE TIME WAS NOW

Those with faith remaining did a little better the rest of the way. Postano ran the third race in the manner expected of a favorite and the first, second and third mutual picks ran the fourth race third, second and first. Even then, the Exacto was a neat $47.50.

Favored Sleepy Star went to Jessop in the fifth race but Jessop zipped up at the last moment on second, favored Zilpon. In the sixth, quite a few thought they might get a price on Assyrian Prince despite a 22-length beating Friday.

They weren't to get them. Foxy Alec, much the best, gave Jessop his second win of the afternoon in the feature event and second-choice Free Glory and favored Glory Roll ran the last one together for most of the way to finish in that order.

It proved quite interesting to the 2,000 there. They put another $75,349 through the mutuels for a 10-day total of $855,277. Some time, about the fifth race tomorrow, someone will put the millionth dollar through one of the purchase windows.

Alston's Vindication As Big as Any Story

LOS ANGELES—Los Angeles Dodgers are champions of the world, and to no one does that mean more than to Walter Alston, the quiet man who now says with satisfaction that "this makes up for everything."

When the Dodgers beat New York, 2-1, here Sunday they did more than merely win the world series, more than merely humble the mighty Yankees as they have never been humbled before.

THE HEAT IS OFF

In winning they also vindicated Alston, a manager under fire since the end of last season when the Dodgers blew a National League pennant they apparently had sewed up.

Because Alston is not a talker, because he refused to trot out his club's problems for public consumption, he has been a target throughout this season. Even when general manager Buzz Bavasi called a meeting early in the season to express management confidence in Alston, the hounds never let up.

IT MEANT MORE

So for Alston this one was special, even more special than to Sandy Koufax, who set a series strikeout record in the first game and tossed a six-hitter to win the last one. Or to Don Drysdale and Johnny Podres, who won the other two and helped hold the Yankees to a .171 team batting average.

Alston is now being hailed as a great manager and the Dodgers a great team, but Bavasi himself was quick to pooh-pooh reports that the Dodgers are set to establish a new baseball dynasty.

"We should be National League contenders for as far ahead as we can see," he said. "But I don't think there's much chance any club in this league is going to set up a dynasty. We don't even know we're going to win next year."

But for now, next year can wait. Dodgers were still shorting over that last victory—made despite the fact that they could manage only two hits off Whitey Ford.

Both those hits were by Frank Howard, a single and a fifth-inning home run that put the Dodgers ahead, 1-0.

Mickey Mantle tied it up with a homer in the seventh, and the Dodgers were in the bottom of the inning on a three-base error by Yankee first baseman Joe Pepitone.

BOYER TOO GOOD

Jim Gilliam hit a wicked smash down the third-base line, and Clete Boyer made a spectacular play to stop it. He made a good throw to first but Pepitone let the ball get past him and Gilliam raced all the way to third, scoring.

on a fly ball by Tommy Davis. "I lost it in the sun and the white shirt of the grandstand," the 28-year-old Pepitone said of the error that may have made a difference of $4,000 per man in the Yankee pay cheques. "It hit my wrist, then my forearm, then my chest."

"All I could see was shirts."

Dodgers Cashed In On Yankee Miscues

LOS ANGELES—New York Yankees made only one error in the world series—but they made quite a few mistakes.

At least one mistake in each game contributed to their downfall at the hands of Los Angeles Dodgers.

In the first game Whitey Ford made what he himself called one of the biggest mistakes of his life. He hung a curve ball to Johnny Roseboro and the Dodger catcher, who hadn't hit a home run off a lefthander all season, parked it in the stands for a three-run homer. Dodgers won, 5-2.

In the second Dodgers got off to a 2-0 lead when Roger Maris fell trying to field Willie Davis' fly ball. Yankees lost, 4-1.

In the third game, which ended 1-0, Dodgers set up their run on a walk and a wild pitch by Jim Bouton. Tommy Davis hit a bad-hop single off Bobby Richardson's foot to drive in the run.

Only official error credited to the Yankees came in the final game, a three-base error to Joe Pepitone that scored the winning run in a 3-1 decision. Dodgers made three errors in four games, but none figured in the scoring.

Although the series went only four games, it provided the richest payoff ever, with each Dodger getting about $12,730 and each Yankee about $8,680.

The pool totalled $1,017,546.43, the teams splitting 70 per cent on a 30-40 basis.

Anyone with thoughts that the Yankees are through had better forget it. Yankees won the American League by 10½ games although Mickey Mantle played only 64 of the 161 games and Roger Maris only 90. The odds say they

"I just lost it, I just lost it," he muttered over and over.

So the series is over and Walter Alston is the happiest man of all.

"As soon as I get home," he said, "I'm going to take my grandson squirrel hunting. Then I'm going to sit on a log. I'm going to sit there a good long while."

Hourigan's Kickers, who had nothing but troubles in their first three matches in the Victoria and District Soccer League's first division, apparently got straightened away Sunday.

Paced by Jack Bruker's hat trick, Kickers trounced Esquimalt, 6-3, after scoring only once in their first three matches. Willie Voght scored twice and Otto Easage once, with Maurice Bunyan getting two and Pete Moran one.

Eddy Kopp collected a hat trick for his Eddys club, but Price & Smith took a 5-3 decision on two goals by Tom Collett and singles by Fred Potts, Dick Austin and Barry Cozier.

Victoria West missed a chance to tie for the lead, as Brodie's held Wests to a 2-2 draw. Gary Crowe and Al MacCallie scored for Wests, Geoff Hill and Ted Smith for Brodie's.

Kickers also broke loose in the second division, pounding Kings, 9-1. In other games, Vikings beat Oak Bay, 7-3, Navy blanked Wanderers, 4-0, and Gorge edged Dunlops, 1-0.

Bears Stay Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—Chicago Bears remained undefeated atop the tough Western Division of the National Football League by calling on their reserve quarterback to get a 10-3 win over Baltimore Colts on Sunday.

Rudy Bukich, who had seen little action in the first three games as Billy Wade led the Bears, came into the game in the fourth quarter and tossed the winning touchdown pass to tight end Mike Ditka. The Bears' defense held the Colts to a field goal in the fourth quarter.

Arnie's Where the Money Is PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Arnold Palmer says he has to play more often to shoot winning golf but the suspicion is growing that it is money which brings out the best in the richest linkman of all time.

Palmer shot a birdie on the 71st hole Sunday to win the $26,000 first prize in the $125,000 Whitmarsh Open tournament to beat out Jay Hebert by a stroke, 281-282.

In collecting the richest prize on the PGA circuit, Palmer boosted his record winnings for the year to $127,555.

ALL THREE
A big percentage of it came from the three richest PGA events of the year. Although

Palmer failed to win any of the major prestige events—the U.S. and British Opens and the Masters—he was right there when the big money was on the line.

He had previously won $25,000 in the Thunderbird Classic and $22,000 in the Cleveland Open.

Palmer almost blew it Sunday after his late birdie binge on Saturday had put him three strokes ahead of the field.

Hebert was in the clubhouse with a last-round 71 and every hope of winning after Palmer took a double bogey on the 14th hole. But Palmer had the answer. He birdied the 15th to go ahead, then came through with another birdie on the 17th after getting a bogey on the 16th.

The scrambling gave him a 74 for the round. Phil Rodgers and Mason Rudolph, closest to Palmer after 54 holes, both blew their chances. Rudolph matched Palmer's 74 to end up in a fifth-place tie at 284. Rodgers skied to a 77 to finish well down.

Al Balding of Toronto finished in a third-place tie with Sam Snead to win $6,750. Snead finished with a sparkling 66 to get his 283.

The money list:

Palmer ($26,000), 71-72-74-281.
Hebert ($18,000), 72-74-80-281.
Balding ($6,750), 70-80-73-283.

Borne ($3,600), 73-75-76-287.

Juveniles Hurt in Stolen Car

Three juveniles were injured Sunday when a stolen car, stolen Saturday night from a Victoria used car lot, crashed into a gully near Goldstream Park and was wrecked.

Colwood RCMP said the car, a 1957 model stolen from a Yates Street lot, was a total wreck.

The car, they said, went off the road at high speed into the gully about 100 feet north of the park entrance from the Trans-Canada Highway.

Wanna play checkers?
No.
You won't play because you know I always beat you.
Oh, yeah? Well, show me the checkers!
Either way I get humiliated.

We have three patients waiting! We're an hour behind schedule! What would you have preferred I told Judge Wiley?
I would have preferred your being a little more civil on the phone!
Hello, Miss Brooks! This is Miss Wiley! Now's my husband this morning!
Meanwhile...
He seems improved!
That's wonderful, Miss Brooks! By the way, what time of day does Dr. Morgan make his hospital rounds?
He's been here for morning rounds already, Miss Wiley! He'll make his evening rounds about six.

Humph! It requires no cheating to beat you, Desmond.

That Miss Pearce just got into a cab, lieutenant!
It's headed downtown!
She was supposed to meet me in an hour! She's late!

It's a deal! Well, send America oil, if you stop sending us Americans!!
The trouble with Americans is they love America so much they think it's a crime for foreigners to be un-American!!
A few hours later...
We're taking the wrong route to America! No ignorant furriners!

I wish the children would learn to turn the lights off when they're through with them.
Why don't you charge them for their carelessness?
Good idea.
Hereafter, I'm going to deduct a dime from your allowance for every light you leave on.
What if we teenagers started charging our parents for all the joy and comfort we bring to them?

You're going to be on TV?
Yes, with increasing enrollment, overcrowding, and lack of space in our schools...
I offered to present my program for this space problem! I've worked for days on my notes!

Garden Notes

Let Corms Ripen

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRMS

The novice gardener is inclined to make two very common mistakes in the lifting and storing of his gladiolus bulbs. He digs them up too soon after the flowers finish—for glads are anything but beautiful in their untidy post-bloom period—and bungs them right into a cool corner of the basement without giving the corms an opportunity to ripen.

I suggested recently you should start thinking about taking up the glads around the middle of October, but give the bulbs as much more time in the ground as weather conditions permit. Today I think we might discuss the actual operations of lifting and storing.

I use a flat-tined digging fork for the lifting, easing the bulbs gently out of the ground and pulling up on the topgrowth at the same time. Don't yank roughly, for this tends to crack the skin of the bulb. Shake off any soil that will fall away naturally, then cut off the tops right down to within an inch of the bulb. I use a small pair of pruning shears for this job. These gladiolus tops are not much good for the compost heap as they rot to a slimy, evil-smelling mass. I think it is better to stack them loosely to dry out, then burn them.

In bygone days, it was the custom to bundle up the lifted glads, complete with tops, and hang them to a rafter in the basement for the winter. We had some cockeyed idea at the time the sap in the leaves ran back down into the bulbs, plumping them a bit more. We know now it isn't the sap that runs down into the bulbs, but bugs and blights from the leaves, seeking a comfortable winter home, hence the immediate amputation of the tops.

Don't make any particular effort to clean up the bulbs at this stage—just stack them in shallow boxes or seed flats, not more than two or three layers of bulbs to the box, complete with roots, bulbets and any dirt that still clings. It is a good idea at this point to give them a good squirt of garden dust—one that contains both a bug-killer and a blight preventer. Potato dust, tomato dust, rose dust, all-purpose vegetable dust or bulb dust are all good. I have some preference for dusts that contain captan, as this fungicide seems to put an extra sparkle into next year's flowers, just as a captan-sulphur spray makes for cleaner and more sparkling strawberries.

At this point, a lot of gardeners go wrong by storing their gladiolus bulbs right away in a very cool corner of the basement. This isn't good, for glads should be dried off quickly and need quite a bit of warmth and free air circulation for about three weeks to ripen and cure the bulbs properly. Ideal temperature range during this curing process is between 75 and 85 degrees, but ordinary room temperatures will serve.

I find the cosy furnace room in our basement is about right for this drying-off process and, to help things along a bit, I rig up a small portable electric fan to blow across the trays of bulbs for perhaps an hour a day, carrying away any excess moisture. The fan stunt is by no means necessary—just an added refinement, useful when the air doesn't circulate as freely as it should.

After about three weeks in the warmth, you can test your bulbs to see if the curing process is completed. You do this by trying to twist off the old, last year's shrivelled-up bulb from the bottom of the plump new one. If it comes away cleanly and easily and all in one piece, the bulbs are ripe and ready to be transferred to cool storage but, if you break a thumbnail trying to separate old from new bulbs, better give them another week in the warmth and try again.

The cleaning and storage problems will be dealt with in this column at the appropriate time.

ART BUCHWALD, Somewhere in Latin America

Civilians Can't Be Trusted

"Col. Henriques, it's time for a coup."

"Already, General? We only had elections last week."

"Exactly. We've given them a fair chance and obviously they failed."

"That's true, General. They had their opportunity and they didn't know what to do with it. It was the same last year. We gave them free elections and the next thing we knew the politicians were running the country."

"Let this be a lesson to you, Colonel. Every time the civilians get in they let the opposition leaders out of jail, lift newspaper censorship, and start screaming for land reform."

"Not to mention that they want the rich people to pay taxes."

"Well, Colonel, we must start planning. Call the Air Force and Navy and tell them what we're up to just in case the President reaches them before we arrest him."

"I think we'll have to give the Air Force a role in the junta, General. The last time they were very angry that they didn't get a job. Gen. Fernandez told me if he wasn't included in the next coup he would refuse to fly the President into exile."

"Then we'll send him by ship."

"The Navy also told me they wanted a role."

"Dammit, Colonel, you can't have a coup if you let everyone into the junta. What did they teach you at the military academy, anyway?"

"I'm sorry. What should I tell Gen. Fernandez?"

"Tell him the Air Force can organize the next coup after this one."

"And the Navy?"

"Tell them they have the next coup after the Air Force. We'll do it on a rotating basis."

"Yes, sir. Now I think we better draw up some kind of excuse for the coup. The United States is supporting this government."

"Ah, it's good you remembered that. We'll say the coup was necessary because the Communists, paid by Castro, planned to take over the government."

"We said that the last time," the Colonel says.

"So we'll say it again. We will say that as soon as we clear the Communists out of office we'll hold free elections."

"Do you think they'll buy it?"

"They have every other time. At first they'll be upset, but they'll get over it. Tell the CIA what we're up to so they can notify their people in Washington in advance of the coup. In that way the CIA will be very grateful to us because they had the information first."

"General, you're a genius!"

"Colonel, when you have been in and out of juntas as long as I have, these things come naturally. Also we must arrange with Quada Sierra to move their troops to our border so we can claim we're being threatened from without and can ask for new military equipment. I hate to surround the Presidential Palace in those rusty old tanks."

"Would Quada Sierra do it for us?"

"Why not? We did it for them."

"Yes, sir. How many house arrests do you want to make?"

"Let's see. The Cabinet, the leaders of the political parties, the university students, and the palace guard. I think we should arrest about 500, and then we can have an amnesty for Christmas."

"The families will be no grateful!"

"I guess that will be all, Colonel. I have to start working on my proclamation speech."

"Four score and seven weeks ago..."

The Mixed-Up World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Sinatra Has Spoken

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Frank Sinatra, who acts like his other name is God, showed his awful displeasure with ex-clansman first class, Joey Bishop, by dropping him from his new picture Robin and the Seven Hoods. In view of Frankie's current problems with the law in Nevada, maybe he should get a new title.

Kim Novak is hiding out in Carmel again. I hope she isn't planning to be like Jean Arthur who went to Carmel for a visit more than 10 years ago, and is still there.

I bumped into Rosa Munster whose Thrill of It All with Doris Day not only made a big movie star of James Garner, but will make Universal and Ross between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000. Rosa had other glowing news. Sandy (Sandra Dee) just called me. And it's official. She is not expecting a baby. And I'm just off too see my jeweller to order $1,000,000 worth of diamonds for Sandy for her next picture with me—The Richest Girl in the World. It looks set for Robert Goulet, the hottest actor of Hollywood and Broadway to co-star with Miss Dee. Also Andy Williams.

And, continued Rosa, "My Deal with Hayley Mills is just about set. My first film with her is Psyche!" Hayley will play a girl who was kidnapped at three months. I... And another gaudie on the schedule of the successful young producer, To See a Stranger, to star Deborah Kerr... Ross showed his last film, Chalk Garden, to 100 exhibitors in New York, and received a standing ovation.

Joan Blondell has promised she will not diet. It's because she looks so comfortable—and because she's a good actress—that Joan landed the plum role of Min in the new TV series, Min and Bill. Oldsters will remember Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in the original movie.

I hear reports of discontent between Mrs. Tony Curtis and Tony's mother, Mrs. Schwartz.

Pamela Tiffin finished the Frank Sinatra production for the younger set in Hollywood, For Those Who Think Young, and is now back home in New York where she has enrolled at Columbia—the university, not the studio. Her courses include philosophy of science and history of art.

David Niven is a writer, it seems. He'll be good if he writes as well as he talks. He is now deep inside a book, Flora has Four Eyes. And if you want to know who Flora is, she is Flora Robson, who played the Dowager Empress of China in 55 Days at Peking, in which David starred. Next film for the debonair actor, Brave New World for Rex Harrison.

Red Skelton was offered $500,000 for his home in Bel Air. Red's answer was to start a complete renovation job on the house that will take Mrs. Red six months to complete. Unless you have lived in Bel Air or Beverly Hills, you will not be able to understand the mania for decorating and refurbishing houses that looked pretty good to begin with.

Lee Remick told me one time that she would never leave New York to live in Hollywood. She did, of course, because it would be silly to commute so much when you make as many pictures as Lee makes a year in Hollywood. But she is happy to be going back to New York in the spring to star on Broadway in her first musical, Side Show. First she will go dramatic in the Travelling Lady movie—in Hollywood.

Howard Keel goes to London when he finishes his eight months tour in No Strings. He will make a movie over there, The Day the Devil Died, for Alexander Singer and Philip Hazleton.

Lord Mayor Saves 1,900-Year-Old Ship

LONDON (AP)—A Roman ship embedded in a River Thames mud bank has won a last-minute reprieve from destruction and will be preserved for a London museum.

Sir Ralph Peering, London's lord mayor, who recently visited Vancouver Island, halted a road improvement project so the 1,900-year-old vessel could be salvaged.

The ship was uncovered a year ago near Blackfriars Bridge. It was identified as Roman and experts say it is the most complete Roman ship ever excavated.

But for the lord mayor's action the ship would have been destroyed by draglines excavating foundations for an underpass beneath the bridge.

John Marsden, excavations assistant of the city's Guildhall Museum, said:

"No ships of the Roman period have ever been found looking like this. It is something entirely new in our knowledge of the history of ship construction."

The identification as Roman is certain, however, Marsden added. He found a coin of the Roman emperor Domitian, who reigned from 81 to 96 A.D., beneath the heel of its mast.

FIVE DAY WEEK JUST A DREAM

Although a 5 day week is a reality for many Canadians, for hundreds of thousands a 5 day week is just a dream... as any mother of small children will tell you.

Up at the crack of dawn—fetching, carrying, washing, ironing, preparing meals and formulas all day long—7 days a week. She wonders how she could possibly do more.

If she's your wife, you certainly wouldn't trade places with her. Yet think how much EXTRA she'd have to do if anything happened to your income and she was forced to go back to work. Worse still, perhaps, think how many things for your children would be left undone!

There is one sure way to guarantee that this won't happen to your wife and family and that is by your purchase now of sufficient permanent personal life insurance.

May we suggest you talk over your future financial plans and your present health insurance protection with a trained representative of The Excelsior Life Insurance Company, the Company helping Canadians help themselves to peace of mind.

Diver Got the Message

VANCOUVER (CP)—Stuart Craig, 17-year-old novice Scuba diver who contracted "the bends," says the navy got its safety message across while he sat in the naval decompression chamber in Esquimalt.

Craig, who learned to dive only last summer, was diving near Squamish eight days ago when he hit 110 feet for the first time. He didn't realize he had gone too deep or that he had been in the water too long.

"When I came out of the water I felt sick, dizzy and I had an itchy hip. Then I got what the navy divers said was the 'chokes' which affect the muscles at the back of the nose and throat."

He was flown to the navy base at Esquimalt where it was revealed he was suffering from "the bends," the accumulation of deadly nitrogen bubbles in his body under pressure.

P was put in the navy's decompression chamber for more than 36 hours and was released with no apparent ill effects. While in the chamber he was given a book of diving safety.

Was Liston Involved?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The grand ruling council of the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate has tenuous connections with foreign diplomats, congressmen, movie stars, prizefighters, union officials, local government officials and a few business leaders, law enforcement sources said Monday.

They said membership in Cosa Nostra, while changing all the time, is considerably greater than the 4,000 persons mentioned in some reports.

On the connections with other figures, the sources mentioned the name of heavy-weight boxing champion Sonny Liston.

Cosa Nostra's grand council, consisting of the leaders of 12 leading "families" in the organization, once decided a dispute among its members over Liston's fight proceeds before he won the heavy-weight championship Sept. 25, 1962, the sources said.

Man Could Die Waiting Wagon Says Passmore

Last Year ...

... you helped 552 Greater Victoria victims of arthritis and rheumatism lead a more comfortable and useful life through your contribution to the Community Chest. They, and thousands of others, still need your help. Give generously to the 1963 United Appeal again ...

... This Year

$8,156

Best Day Yet For Appeal

The 1963 United Appeal campaign yesterday realized $8,156 in the best collection day to date, bringing the total to $58,252. This is 14.5 per cent of this year's goal of $400,000 for Greater Victoria.

The largest contributions so far have come from the corporation canvass, with $20,796 taken in or pledged.

The residential canvass begins Oct. 15.

Four more employee groups have qualified for the golden plaque award, made to groups contributing more than half of one day's pay from at least 80 per cent of the employees.

They are:

The provincial government department of industrial development, the Government Street branch Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and four federal government divisions—national revenue (taxation); treasury (audit branch); citizenship and immigration and the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Starting course in English and citizenship for New Canadians are bricklayer Erk Nielsen and his wife Inge, with instructor Mrs. Ethel Carson. —(Bud Kinsman)

Want to Join Brass Band Or Learn to Tie Flies?

If you want to learn something, there's a pretty good chance you'll find it in Victoria's night school program, even if your ambitions run to joining a military band.

Night school opened last night with 5,000 students registered for the 280 courses, an increase of 25 per cent over last year, to make Victoria's night school population one of the highest per capita in Canada.

Many of last year's courses are still on the curriculum and new ones have been added. The military band is one; making children's custom clothing another.

NEAREST HEART

But the new one nearest to night principal Alan Batey's heart is the full-time high school program in which 30 people have enrolled to bring their education up to university entrance standards. It's not easy. They work from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m., and to quote Mr. Batey: "They're also trying to work during the day, too. They'll kill themselves, but they're trying."

It's a three-fold sacrifice for them. There's the $200 fee, plus the time involved and the great effort required of people who got out of the studying habit years ago.

The military band course is one which should prove popular, providing people realize that a military band doesn't call for marching and a uniform.

Actually, a military band is a concert band, that is a concert orchestra without strings.

Not all the night school instruction is in school, nor is it offered at night.

Yes, Mr. Batey admitted, there's fly-tying, too, but it pays for itself, he emphasized—in fact the whole program is self-supporting.

"Don't forget," was his farewell, "fly-tying isn't a drill."

ing techniques have produced

A seriously injured man could die on the street before Victoria police get their two ambulances back from a police court session in Saanich, Coun. Leslie Passmore charged last night.

The two city police "wagons" which carry prisoners to the central courtroom on Vernon Avenue north of the Town and Country shopping centre are also used as ambulances for emergency runs to hospitals.

BOTH TIED UP

Sometimes both are tied up at court in Saanich when they are needed in the city, said Coun. Passmore in a charge at the police court operation during last night's Saanich council meeting.

Commenting on reports that the courtroom is overcrowded and that there is so much dissatisfaction a move is afoot for transfer of the court to the old courthouse in Bastion Square, he said "even the mayor of Victoria who promoted this stupid idea has suggested they should move back to Bastion Square."

UNIFIED COURT

Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and the provincial government should share the increased cost of operation at the unified court, with nothing to be charged against Saanich," Coun. Passmore said.

If the courtroom is to be moved to Bastion Square, Saanich should also be compensated "for the damage which has been done to the police court, the ripping out of partitions and tearing our buildings apart to accommodate them."

CHALLENGE HIM

"Councillor Passmore is a master of exaggeration," countered Coun. Hugh Curtis, "and I have to challenge him for the statement about 'ripping our building apart'."

Reeve Stanley Murphy advised council that the provincial attorney-general's department will "have a second look" at the court operation and "if Saanich doesn't want to co-operate, back to Victoria goes the whole show."

MOVE OUR COURT

"A threat that the attorney-general's department will move our court is not going to coerce my opinion," snapped Coun. Passmore.

Coun. Harold Todd sided with Coun. Passmore. "It's a nuisance to Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and especially us. It was an ill-conceived plan in the first place to do it the way they did."

Let People Purchase Half a Duplex Saanich Council Told

LOUIS PERC

Seen In Passing

Louis Perc, working in his shoe building and repairing shop. (He lives at 1275 Pandora with his wife, Mary, and his 11-year-old son Benny. His hobbies are playing the accordion and bowling with his son) ... Frank Jemey going back to net a fish that got away when the reel caught in the sleeve of George Sturgeon, who was landing his first salmon ... Pat Blisset landing two coho on bucktails at Mill Bay ... Doug Smith sporting a new pair of specs ... Jim Blackman with a 19 hand in crib ... Jerry Murray taking it easy ... Barney Kent flat on his back.

You can't buy half a duplex in Greater Victoria, but it would be a good idea, Saanich council was told last night.

Robert Price, on behalf of Jupiter Estates Ltd., asked council to amend its bylaws to allow people to buy individual units.

Reeve Stanley Murphy said he and a couple of councillors were concerned about the implications of subdivision which would result in very small lot sizes.

LOOK INTO

But council cautiously agreed to look into the matter.

Mr. Price said young married couples and families with small income could afford to buy this type of housing, could qualify for the homeowners grant, would pay lower local improvement costs and lower taxes under his proposal.

Units of semi-detached duplexes — in effect, two houses put together — would cost less than an ordinary single-family dwelling but would have better architectural design than the average duplex in Greater Victoria today, he said.

ONE SIDE

"The problem of a duplex in Victoria is you can't own one side of a duplex unless it is father and son, or something like that," Mr. Price told council. "Therefore, duplexes are not popular here."

"But they are popular out east where people can own half-a-duplex ... to people not able to afford payments involved may for single family dwellings, that is my solution (amendment of the bylaws)."

Jupiter Estates is in the process of developing a University Village in the Shaughnessy-Blair Avenue area.

Camera Club Show

It's Technique That Counts

By TED GASKELL

The 200 examples of camera art at the Victoria Camera Club's 20th International Salon of Photography include work that many a brush-and-paint artist might be proud of.

With deliberate double and triple exposures, reversed color and black and white prints, the camera artists have created remarkable effects. Camera and enlarging techniques have produced — sometimes in the same print—the power of oils and the softness of pastels.

Amateurs who believe their work is all done when the shutter clicks will find in this exhibition that the camera is only the start of the work.

It's what has been done with the negative or print which makes the difference between the snapshot of Tommy's first fish and an art gallery piece.

A still life has been made to look impressionistic by reversal of a color print; other color photographs caught the judges' eye by sheer composition values — such as A Le Fenetre, by R. Menard, and Wasche, by Dr. Hans Ulrich.

The exhibition, which opened Sunday and was seen by 400 patrons, continues at the Art Gallery until Oct. 20.

Part of the full day of farewell ceremonies by the Patricias was this ceremony at HMCS Naden when they readied for a farewell salute to their comrades-in-arms.

Centennial Square Planners Face Theatre Cafe Problem

Centennial Square planners this week will come to grips with the problem of restaurant facilities to be included in the civic playhouse.

All available information on types of restaurant operation will be brought before a special meeting at 2 p.m. Friday.

NEW GROUP TO ATTEND

Attending will be the newly-created council-citizen group studying administration of the theatre and adjoining senior citizens recreation centre and the smaller advisory body appointed to assist architect Alan Hodgson.

Park Damaged

Victoria police have questioned three juveniles regarding damage estimated at $225 to equipment at Banfield Park.

Parks officials say two children's swings were torn down and taken away and "Jungle Jim" exercise equipment was dismantled.

Ald. A. W. Toone, who heads the committee in charge of overall planning for the $2,000,000 civic project, last week was appointed chairman of the new advisory body.

At the inaugural meeting it was agreed the scope of restaurant facilities in the theatre was the most urgent problem requiring attention.

Working drawings for the theatre, including limited convention facilities, are already in preparation and the final decision on the restaurant section cannot be long delayed.

CAFETERIA-TYPE

Provision was made in final sketch plans for a cafeteria-type restaurant with accommodation for between 60 and 65 persons.

It was assumed that the city would provide space and basic services, including a minimum of decor, heavy wiring and plumbing, and allow a concessionaire to provide equipment.

The overall planning committee was recently told that a decision to fully equip the restaurant at the city's expense would cut up to $30,000 from the theatre budget which is already tight.

The contract to operate the restaurant will include provision of refreshments for two concessions in the theatre itself and probably tea, coffee and sandwiches for the employees' canteen that will be part of the new city hall accommodation.

When conventions of between 350 and 400 are accommodated, the services of an outside catering firm will be required. The committee from the start felt it would be unwise to provide kitchen space of a size necessary to accommodate this maximum use.

Open Meeting

The Victoria Natural History Society will hold an open meeting in the Douglas Building Cafeteria at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Ed Lohbrunner will give an illustrated talk on his recent visit to Japan. Members of the The- tis Park Nature Sanctuary are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pearman, 2862 Rockwell Avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Freida June, to Mr. William Dealey, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dealey,

225 Obed Avenue. The wedding will take place Saturday, Nov. 9, at 7 p.m. in Centennial United Church with Rev. S. J. Parsons officiating. —(Kandid Kamera)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: There is a certain couple in our crowd who bores everyone to death with endless reports of what their children are saying and doing. They have two kids who are bright and attractive but the rest of us have kids of whom we are pretty proud too.

The mother carries the girl's themes in her purse and reads them at bridge luncheons. The father always "just happens" to have a letter in his pocket from the boy which was written when he was away at camp. They both carry pictures, dozens of them—and I have seen the same batch of pictures three times. They forget who has seen and heard what, and I, for one, am mighty tired of the whole routine.

These parents are not stupid, yet they are not even remotely aware that they are boring their friends to death. Any suggestions? — CAULIFLOWER EARS.

Dear Ears: Isn't it awful when people won't stop bragging about their kids long enough to give us a chance to brag about ours? I know the type and they are insufferable.

There is no way to turn off proud parents. You may as well try to turn off the sun. If you just happen to have a couple of hundred pictures of your own kids handy it could break up the monotony.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 18 years old and training to be a nurse. I feel that I know my way around pretty well because I've been dating since I was 12 and have always been considered mature for my age.

Three months ago I began to take stock of myself. I counted 17 fellows I have actually gone steady with and there have been at least 20 others whom I dated two or three times. All I have to show for my popularity is a few beat-up rings, some cheap bracelets, dozens of pictures and stacks of letters.

Six weeks ago I met an intern who is a real doll. He has been dating other nurses but I think he likes me best. The problem is I can't get any kind of commitment out of him. He won't go steady and refuses to discuss anything permanent. He says he is stone broke and can't think seriously about any girl at this time. How can I nail him?—EVE.

Dear Eve: I wouldn't say an 18-year-old girl is exactly a candidate for the Old Folks Home. Why should you want to nail anybody?

Just because you've dated a small battalion of guys doesn't mean you're mature. It only means you've been busy.

You have chosen an excellent field for service and for meeting people. I suggest you put on the brakes and forget about marriage for a couple of years.

Dear Ann Landers: I read your views on giving a boy a permanent wave and I do not agree that it is a bum idea. Listen to MY story and you'll understand why.

When my son was 11 years of age I decided his hair would look much nicer curly instead

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Campbell, 3151 Fifth Street. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. McKeever, 2074 Haultain Street.

Miss Joyce Sandilands sang "Because" during the ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white nylon-over-taffeta, fashioned with inverted lace pleat at centre of skirt. Her bouffant shoulder-length veil mistled from a pearl and sequin crown. Pink roses and white feathered chrysanthemums were in her cascade bouquet.

Mrs. J. Corey, matron of honor, and bridesmaids, Misses Carolyn Cornish and Sharon Barber were identically gowned in deep turquoise brocade with headpieces and shoes on tone. They carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations.

Flower girl, Miss Susan Gill, wore pink brocade with matching headpiece and carried pink carnations. Jack Cory was best man. Guests were ushered to pews marked with pink jew markers by Bob Campbell and Tom Matthews.

The toast was proposed by Jack Carter at a reception in Holyrood House. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked with vases of pink roses.

Bride Carries Mother's Bible

Pink and white gladiolus and chrysanthemums decorated the altar at Fairfield United Church for the marriage of Norah Ann Bennett and Mr. John Douglas Johnson.

Rev. Dr. H. K. Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Bennett, 417 Linden Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Johnson, 2820 Gosworth Road.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white brocade. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and lily-point sleeves and a single rose at the waistline created back interest for the bouffant skirt which swept back into a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion net mistled from a tiara of lace edged with seed pearls. For "something old," the bride carried her mother's Welsh bible topped with a cattleya orchid set in feathered chrysanthemums and white velvet ivy leaves.

Matron of honor Mrs. A. Olafson, bride's matron Mrs. S. Bennett, bridesmaids the Misses Marlene Bleackley and Theresa Lyn Johnson and flowergirl Miss Leslie LaPierre, were gowned alike in coradflower blue taffeta with silk organza overlay. They wore single organza rose and nylon tulle headpieces and pearl necklaces, gift of the bride. The senior attendants carried champagne lace fans with pink carnations and feather chrysanthemums while the little flower girl carried a basket of pink carnations and feathered chrysanthemums.

Mr. Robert Denison was best man. The Messrs. Ronald Baker-Smith and Michael Bennett and David Bennett, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

During signing of the register the soloist, Mrs. Rodney Webster, sang Bless Are the Pure in Heart, composed by Mr. Webster.

Mr. Lucien LaPierre proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Holyrood House. A three-tiered wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, centred the bridal table.

For a honeymoon trip to the Okanagan the bride wore a royal blue boucle suit with matching lace blouse and bone accessories. An orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

With "Back to Home and Country" as their theme, the South Vancouver Island Women's Institute held its annual conference in Colwood Community Hall.

The hostess institute excelled itself by dressing in the 1909 style with long skirts and frills, buttons and bows. The luncheon and tea was delicious and so was the welcoming "cuppa" coffee at nine in the morning.

Special guests from far away were provincial president Mrs. R. C. Palmer of Kelowna and Mrs. E. G. Woodward of Victoria, both representatives of the federated board; Mrs. J. H. MacMillan of Qualicum and Mrs. Norman Hughes, who brought greetings from Stoney Creek, Ont., birthplace of the WI. It was a real thrill to have Mrs. Hughes at the conference.

Mrs. Ruth Patchett of Quesnel was present and brought greetings from the Cariboo. Mrs. W. Coats and Mrs. R. Gray came from Gabriola Island.

Luncheon guest speaker was Mr. James Nesbitt, who gave an amusing talk on Emily Carr and her work.

Canadian Club Told

'We Know Enough To Reach Moon'

After Russia and the United States, Canada was the next country to design and construct a satellite, said Dr. J. J. Green, Director of Research for Litton Systems Ltd., in talking to the Women's Canadian Club at a meeting in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

"The Alouette, as it is called, is a scientific satellite which analyzes the electron density in the upper regions of the ionosphere and measures cosmic ray particle concentrations coming from outer space.

"It is expected that its batteries will last for another year, however, it is believed it will continue to orbit another 2,000 years.

"As of Oct. 1, there are 66 U.S. satellites, three Russian, one U.S. satellite containing British equipment and one Canadian satellite still in orbit."

Dr. Green spoke of man's deep urge to explore the unknown and to extend his control over his physical environment as being "persuasive" in the space programs.

He outlined moon trips and landings in detail and stated "it is entirely feasible in the 1967-70 era."

He said the program is not dependent on new scientific breakthroughs, but can be consummated by engineering developments using existing technology.

"Estimated costs of lunar travel are quite interesting. A total expenditure of $30,000,000 will do it."

"About 6,000 industrial firms are now involved in the program we call Project Apollo."

Dr. Green said man's intellectual horizons would be broadened and at the same time the shrinking of the world which began with the aeroplane would be extended through space activities.

A rock was unveiled in Beacon Hill Park Sunday in commemoration of presentation of new Colors by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II in 1958, and of current departure of 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. Maj.-General C. B. Ware, DSO, Colonel of the regiment, unveiled the rock. Now commanding officer of Royal Military College, Kingston, he was appointed colonel after the death of Brig. Hamilton Gault. The advance party of the battalion leaves the city Oct. 15 for three-year tour with NATO forces in Germany.

Present at Sunday's ceremony were Maj. Gordon Gunton, second in command of the PPCLI, with his wife; Mrs. Brown, Gen. Ware, Lt.-Col. G. G. Brown, CO of the battalion, Alderman M. Mooney and Mr. Herbert Warren, city parks commissioner.—(Robin Clarke)

Holy Trinity Fetes Minister and Wife

SOOKE—A reception arranged by Holy Trinity Church members was held recently in Sooke Community Hall to honor Rev. and Mrs. John Lancaster, newly-married.

The affair drew recognition to the fact Holy Trinity now is in the parish of Sooke-Jordan River and has its first resident minister, Rev. and Mrs. Lancaster will reside in the vicarage adjoining the church site on Murray Road.

Baskets filled with brightly-hued flowers of autumn decorated the hall for the gala occasion. The long tea table was centered with a profusion of miniature dahlias flanked by gold-colored rosebuds in silver vases. Mrs. Joseph Jupp and Miss D. Mitchell poured tea while members of the Mother's Union served refreshments.

A gift from the parish was presented to the honored couple by Mr. Jupp who was assisted

Torso Stirs Furore

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Directors of the Auckland Art Gallery have discovered what every newspaper man knows: Nothing succeeds like a controversy.

When the gallery decided to spend 950 guineas ($2,985) for an abstract statue, Torso II, by the British sculptor Barbara Hepworth, outraged city councillors protested.

The bronze shape was a waste of public money, they charged.

DONOR ACTS

But before the issue could be brought to a direct vote by the council, an anonymous donor bought the statue and presented it to the gallery.

By the time Torso II arrived at the gallery, the furore had made it the biggest single draw ever displayed there.

Normal attendance when no exhibition of special works is showing is about 200 to 300 persons a day. Since Torso II has been on exhibit, 2,000 persons have daily thronged the gallery.

Gallery authorities claim that whether most people approve the work or not, it has stimulated interest in the gallery more than anything in years.

They would like more works with equal draw and say the purchase price would have been fully justified even if the city had had to pay it.

Indians Want To Scede

KELOWNA (CP)—Indians in the nearby Westbank district voted unanimously Sunday to secede from the Okanagan Indian band and form their own band.

A spokesman for the group said the Westbank Indians want the break in order to have a free hand in negotiating leases on reserve land.

Norman E. Whitehead, in charge of the Okanagan Indian agency, described the move as "completely unorthodox," and said he expected Ottawa would not sanction it.

Dr. Macdonald told the annual convention of B.C. school trustees the U.S. produces an average of 48 PhDs per million population while the Canadian figure was 15 per million.

The 600 convention delegates heard president Richard A. Lester forecast that within five years school boards will withdraw from salary negotiations with teachers in favor of labor relations experts.

Vancouver Mayor William Rathie called for a royal commission inquiry into education financing in B.C.

He said education costs in Vancouver had risen 95 per cent in the last seven years, although costs per student had not risen, and "the homeowner is starting to holler and holler pretty loudly."

Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M. D. Harrison to balding man.

Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He will be here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here tomorrow

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness — and growing thicker hair — will be demonstrated in Victoria this Wednesday, Oct. 9.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison said that he himself will conduct the Victoria clinic. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Hotel Sussex.

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing me," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself — to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All
Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks, to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver."

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

Who Can Be Helped?
Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late! Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth of the organization behind it. Harrison and his affiliates maintain treatment clinics in Canada, the U.S., and Mexico. And their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Free Scalp Examination
See Mr. Harrison in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Hotel Sussex tomorrow, between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m., for Mr. Harrison's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Satisfy 95%
"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and we have records to prove it."

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate — and baldish — by the time he nervously comes to see a Harrison trichologist. So he starts counseling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair: That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss — and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

Examine You Free
"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing me," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself — to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Suites Plan Shelved In Esquimalt

Esquimalt council last night again tabled an application by Dr. L. G. Halstrom to develop a 1.6-acre piece of land at Colville and Hutchison into garden apartments.

It was tabled to allow public works committee time to look into it. The plan calls for five buildings containing 38 suites to be built on the land.

At a previous meeting, Coun. Ernest Cassels, who led a citizen's fight to keep a garden apartment out of the Rock-Heights district, said council was up against the same problem — a high density group of buildings in a small area.

WORKS APPROVED

Council approved a $53,890 winter works program.

The bulk of the money, $24,640, will be spent on boulevards, parks and municipal grounds. Sidewalks will account for $20,000 and the balance of $9,240 will be spent on masonry work made necessary by recent road construction work or in parks.

Victorian Entered Top Fish

PORT ALBERNI — Winner of the Alberni Valley Tye Club's season trophy was not present to claim the award when the presentation banquet was held Sunday night closing a highly successful season.

Murray Taylor, RCN, Victoria, will receive the trophy for his 62-pound tye and a club trophy for weighing in the largest fish of the fifth week of the season. His fish also leads the tye division of the Colonist King Fisherman contest.

E. G. Stroyan, representing MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd., made the presentations and congratulated the club on success of a season in which members had brought in almost four tons of tye.

SMORGASBORD

President Pete Karsholt welcomed the guests at the smorgasbord dinner in the Chandelier Room of the Beaufort Hotel.

Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni and Mayor Loran Jordan of Port Alberni with their wives were among honored guests.

The Chamber of Commerce Trophy for largest fish caught by a lady member was won by Mrs. R. Wale. Alex Lecharity won the watch given by Jensen's Jewellers for the smallest tye of the season.

Arthur Paul and Dave Pedersen tied for the junior award and each was given a trophy, while Doug Fong received the award for first fish caught by a junior member at the opening of the season.

Once in a While Things Work Out

PORT ALBERNI—Once in a while, things just sort of work out for the best by themselves. Last week Russ Bartrim lost his watch while letting out his line to fish in Alberni Inlet. Sunday, at the presentation banquet of the Alberni Valley Tye Club, Mayor Fred Bishop made the draw for a $100 watch, a hidden-weight prize presented by E. & E. Crushing & Paving Ltd. Who won it? Russ Bartrim, that's who.

Dues Increased 55 Cents

DUNCAN—Union dues for Weldon Jubenville said, "I consider this a vote of confidence for the trade union movement. It is obvious that we can now go ahead into next year's negotiations knowing full well that we have the support of the woodworkers."

City Varsity Man Wins National Student Post

A University of Victoria student-council member has won a position as executive assistant on the staff of the newly-formed Canadian Union of Students.

Paul Williamson, NFCS chairman on the student council, was awarded the position during last week's national congress of Canadian university students in Edmonton.

MOVE TO OTTAWA

The job will mean residence in Ottawa and a year off academic pursuits. Second-year arts student Williamson will resign from the student council at the end of this week.

He has been The Daily Colonist's university reporter and will be replaced in that position by Judith Baines.

Mr. Williamson's new job will involve organization of national student activities such as conferences, seminars and debates. It will include research for the preparation of briefs to the federal government on problems of higher education.

Mr. Williamson will also contribute to reports to be given to the royal commission on biculturalism concerning progress made in this area by the Canadian Union of Students.

He won the post on the basis of his experience in student government, journalism, and extensive travel.

Mill Blast

Bad Burns

By MAY BALDWIN

CAMPBELL RIVER—A Victoria man was most seriously injured of five hurt here in a "black liquid" blast Sunday—because he turned back to help a fallen fellow-worker.

Kenneth McHugh, 33, of 435 Durban Road, Victoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McHugh, is in satisfactory condition at Campbell River Hospital with burns from the highly caustic liquid.

Also in satisfactory condition in the hospital are Wil. Iam Scott, utility man, and Joseph Bundy, shift engineer and former Campbell River village commission chairman.

NOT BURNED

Released after treatment were Jack McMuldrough, injured by the explosion but not burned, and Allen Rollins who was entering the plant at the time and who suffered cuts and burns to the face.

The explosion occurred at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the recovery plant of Elk Falls Paper Mills, a Crown Zellerbach subsidiary at Duncan Bay, two miles north of here.

LEFT PLANT

Witnesses said later that Mr. McHugh had left the plant following the explosion when he realized Mr. Scott was still inside.

He went back and found that the other man was hurt and unable to move.

Mr. McHugh ignored his own injuries to help Mr. Scott from the building.

SIFTING WRECKAGE

While cause of the blast had not been determined last night, a team of government, manufacturers' and company inspectors had spent the day Monday sifting through the wreckage of the boiler that exploded in a spray of the "black liquid."

Pending the results of the inspection, there was no indicated similarity between this explosion and one seven weeks ago in a recovery plant on the mainland, when seven men were killed.

NEARBY SITE

Company officials were grateful that the blast occurred on a Sunday. On a weekday, its force would have been directed straight into an adjoining construction site where 30 or 40 men are building a mill extension.

No flames could be seen by first witnesses at the scene, but coils of thick black smoke belched from every crevice of the building.

This smoke hampered Campbell River firemen in containing the blast.

Couldn't Stomach
His Spare Thumb

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP)—Robin Gray, 20-year-old bricklayer, pleaded guilty to burglary Monday. He told the magistrate's court he needed money to have his thumb removed from his abdomen.

Gray said, and the prosecution agreed it was true, that 12 years ago his thumb was severed in an elevator accident.

A surgeon grafted an index finger to the stump of the thumb. Then, thinking the severed thumb might be needed some day, he grafted it to the boy's abdomen to keep it alive.

But, Robin told the court, the thumb on his tummy hurts, especially when he bends over.

He arranged for an operation to have it removed but found he couldn't pay for it. So he broke into a store and stole six cameras and a quantity of cigarettes.

The verdict: Two years on probation.

$75 a Month
For Employers

Commons Told Incentive Plan

OVER-45 BONUS

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has unveiled the details of its $5,000,000 "experimental" program aimed at putting older unemployed workers back on the job.

The incentive is a bonus from the federal government of up to $75 a month for a full year, to be paid for all approved older workers who are given work and training under the new program. The program was first disclosed in the budget speech June 13.

Spelling out the program in a statement in the Commons Monday, Labor Minister MacEachen appealed to employers in Canada to create as many job opportunities as possible for unskilled workers in the 45-and-over age bracket.

WILL GIMMICK WORK?

Michael Starr, Labor minister in the previous Conservative government, accused the government of announcing policies before it had worked out programs.

"It now remains to be seen whether this new gimmick for the employment of the older worker will work out as well as it is hoped . . . or whether it will be just another flop in the gimmicks promoted by this government," he said.

STUDY SWEDEN

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said the program will have to be studied to see whether it "goes any distance in dealing with this problem." He suggested Mr. MacEachen visit Sweden to discover how full employment is provided there for all age groups.

Mr. MacEachen said the program, which begins Nov. 1, is designed to assist long-term unemployed men and women older than 45 years to regain jobs and to secure new skills.

TWO-MONTH PERIOD

The incentive payments—50 per cent of the monthly wage paid or $75 a month, whichever is less—will be made to employers who hire older workers between Nov. 1 and Jan. 31, 1964. However, the payments will not be made until an eligible employee has been on the job for three months.

The incentive payments apply only to workers who are insurable under the Unemployment Insurance Act. Public service workers at all levels of government from municipal through to federal are excluded, as well as domestic and farm workers.

Nightmare

Victims

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (UPI)

The Barranca de Cobre, a copper canyon nightmare of steep cliffs and treacherous water, yesterday gave up unharmed 14 American adventurers, who had been feared lost and starving since Sept. 28.

Bush pilot Jesus Acosta Munoz said the 14 explorers, including two women, and three Mexicans who went to their aid, emerged safely at the northwestern Mexican village of Creel, 180 miles west of Chihuahua.

The group from Utah, California and Pennsylvania entered the canyon Sept. 25 to gather scientific information.

A search by airplane, helicopter and burro began Saturday after James C. Dean of Salt Lake City, an original member of the party, stumbled back to civilization and said the adventurers were running out of food and might be lost.

Elk's Head
May Be Live

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Cranbrook Mayor George Haddad bet Highway Minister Gagliardi an elk's head against a mess of Kamloops trout and a pair of snowshoes that the 40-mile Salmo-Creston cutoff wouldn't be open this year.

Mr. Gagliardi says the cutoff will definitely be open next weekend, and "I'll hang the head in my shack out back."

But Mayor Haddad may have the last word—he's never said the head would be stuffed.

Party-Crasher Admits
Kicking Girl in Head

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ervin Williams, 19, was given a three-month jail sentence Monday when he admitted kicking a girl in the head while 50 youths tried to crash her party Saturday night.

"This sort of offense by a small minority of teenagers has got to stop," said Magistrate Cyril White in handing down the sentence.

Williams admitted standing on the hood of a car and kicking Michele St. Denis, 17, in the head. She was taken to hospital for treatment of a severe bruise. Her brother suffered a three-stitch gash on the head from a blow by a beer bottle.

Williams was charged with assault and two counts of property damage.

HELD, PUNCHED

In another incident, Alex Henderson, 40, said he was held and punched by seven youths who attempted to crash a party in his home.

In another section of the city, 10 youths ripped fences and smashed a window and drainpipe at the convent of the Sacred Heart, the adjacent Roman Catholic church and school and a nearby home.

Dreaded Poison
Feared in Deaths

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A man and his daughter died Monday after eating smoked whitefish from a Kroger's supermarket and doctors feared the dreaded "E" strain of botulism poisoning had stricken several others.

A 42-year-old man lay in critical condition in hospital and a woman and her two children were in a condition "bordering on critical."

Kroger's ordered the suspected product removed from its 1,375 stores in 22 southern and midwestern states. The Food and Drug Administration in Washington said the packers had notified distributors across the U.S. to destroy all stocks of the smoked fish.

LONDON (UPI)—A British foreign ministry spokesman said yesterday the British ambassador in Havana reported militia anti-aircraft batteries recently fired by mistake on a sightseeing plane carrying Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Soviet Ambassador Alexander Alexeyev.

The plane was not hit.

Supply Bill Blockade
Lifted by Creditistes

OTTAWA (CP)—The Creditiste blockade of the government's interim supply bill was lifted Monday night, minutes before the normal Commons adjournment hour.

Gilles Greig, House leader of the Creditiste group, earlier left a meeting of the Commons privileges committee which had been considering the demand of the 13-man group for recognition as third-largest opposition party in the Commons.

He told the Commons he had found the committee was "not serious at all." But he added that the Creditistes had confidence the government would solve the problem.

At that, a series of speeches by Creditiste members ended. A preliminary resolution to grant interim supply to the government to cover its October and November expenses was passed five minutes before the 10 p.m. EDT adjournment.

BILL RUSHED

Two minutes later the money bill, for a total $747,499,955, was introduced. With unanimous consent it was rushed through all three readings and was passed just at 10 o'clock.

The bill now goes to the Senate for approval.

The supply resolution had been before the Commons for three days and at the outset the 13 Creditistes led by Real Caouette had said they would block the measure until they had been given the recognition they sought as third-largest opposition party.

BREAK BLOCKADE

Earlier Monday, after the government presented a motion which would have produced around-the-clock sittings of the Commons to break the blockade, Creditiste leaders indicated they would end their delaying tactics.

The recognition issue then went before an evening meeting of the 29-man privileges committee. As it was debated there, a series of Creditiste members continued speaking in the Commons, preventing passage of the supply resolution.

Mortality Heavy
In Sockeye Run

VANCOUVER (CP)—A disastrous mortality rate among homing sockeye salmon has wiped out about 90 per cent of this year's escapement of potential spawners to the Chilkot River, one of the major sockeye rivers of the Fraser River system.

This was disclosed by the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission Monday when it said of a total escapement of 800,000 sockeye, an estimated 720,000 died without spawning.

The commission said that disaster to a lesser degree also struck the Stellako River, a tributary of the Nechako in Northern B.C. where the total number of unspawned salmon will exceed 100,000.

At the beginning of the season the runs of sockeye were 10 days earlier than usual. And because of a strike by B.C. coast fishermen the escapement was extremely heavy.

Quebec Bomb Death

Terrorists Jailed

MONTREAL (UPI)—Top members of the bomb-terrorist FLQ were given sentences ranging up to 12 years in prison Monday in a brief trial punctuated by an unexplained explosion.

The loud report, which shook the courthouse building, came just as one of the defendants was being ordered to serve 12 years for manslaughter in the bomb death of a nightwatchman here last April 20.

But authorities indicated there was no evidence the blast was connected with the trial. The explosion was believed to have been set off by construction workers preparing the site for a new courthouse nearby.

Among the stiffest sentences were those to Gabriel Hudon, 21, a draftsman, and Georges Schosters, a native of Belgium who admitted masterminding the FLQ's bombing activities here and elsewhere in Quebec province early this year.

Schosters drew sentences totaling 10 years in prison on reduced charges involving the placing of dynamite. He earlier had been charged with non-capital murder.

Jacques Giroux, 19, a photographer, was given a total of 10 years for manslaughter and other charges; Raymond Villeneuve, a total of 12 years, and Yves Labonte, 19, a total of six years.

Most Kingston homes were without water for drinking and total damage on the island was expected to hit about $15,000,000.

Early reports from Haiti had listed Flora's death toll at more than 400, but the figure leaped dramatically Monday.

Citizens of Port au Prince were in fear of a new hurricane—Gerda—which weathermen there told them could be worse than Flora.

Teachers 'Swot' Over Arithmetic

Last Year ...

$8,156

Best Day Yet For Appeal

The 1963 United Appeal campaign yesterday realized $8,156 in the best collection day to date, bringing the total to $38,252. This is 14.5 per cent of this year's goal of $400,000 for Greater Victoria.

The largest contributions so far have come from the corporation canvass, with $20,790 taken in or pledged.

The residential canvass begins Oct. 15.

Four more employee groups have qualified for the golden plaque award, made to groups contributing more than half of one day's pay from at least 80 per cent of the employees.

They are: The provincial government department of industrial development, the Government Street branch Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and four federal government divisions—national revenue (taxation); treasury (audit branch); citizenship and immigration and the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Indian Treaty Case Could Go to UN

Indians Plan To Attend Classes

DUNCAN—Some members of the Cowichan Indian band will make use of the adult education program sponsored by the Cowichan School District, said Indian missionary Father Joseph Rossiter.

Course to be taken by them include typing, bookkeeping, mathematics and English.

Father Rossiter said it is hoped to get another group to study basic English and basic arithmetic.

He said, "I think it is a tremendous opportunity for them." The decision to participate in the adult education program here followed a recent meeting of the Mothers' Club at which Dr. Johnson of the education branch with the Indian Affairs Department was the guest speaker.

Park Damaged Trio Queried

VICTORIA police have questioned three juveniles regarding damage estimated at $225 to equipment at Banfield Park.

Parks officials say two children's swings were torn down and taken away and "Jungle Jim" exercise equipment was dismantled.

NANAIMO—More than 200 teachers from both private and public schools in the Nanaimo school district went back to school Monday while their pupils took a holiday.

The one-day school closure was to give teachers the opportunity to attend a workshop on elementary arithmetic held in the Quesnel public school. Grades 1 to 6 were closed for the day.

Mrs. Irene Richmond, former Alberta school principal and Peace River supervisor, conducted the workshop. New methods of teaching arithmetic introduced in British Columbia schools last year were explained by Mrs. Richmond.

STILL TAUGHT

Multiplication tables and the like are still taught, but the pupils are now taught why multiplication tables exist and accent is put on the practical uses of arithmetic. Two and two still make four but now junior is told why. Also arithmetic is taught as an introduction to mathematics instead of as a distantly related subject.

MOST PROVINCES

Mrs. Richmond, since joining the staff of W. J. Gage Ltd., text book publishers in 1959 as educational consultant, has conducted workshops in most provinces of Canada. She holds a bachelor of education degree from the University of Alberta. During the past two summer vacations she has worked with the B.C. Teachers' Federation in giving courses for teachers at UBC and Victoria University.

Miss Margaret McLennan, primary school supervisor for Nanaimo, was enthusiastic about the new teaching system, and herself attended a course at UBC this summer.

The workshop arrangements in Nanaimo were made by T. E. Bennett, director of elementary education for district No. 68, and J. L. Borsario, representative for Nanaimo District Teachers' Association.

Alberni Anglers Receive Awards

PORT ALBERNI—Winner of the Alberni Valley Tye Club's season trophy was not present to claim the award when the presentation banquet was held Sunday night closing a highly successful season.

Murray Taylor, RCN, Victoria, will receive the trophy for his 62-pound tye and a club trophy for weighing in the largest fish of the fifth week of the season. His fish also leads the tye division of the Colonist King Fisherman contest.

E. G. Stroyan, representing MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd., made the presentations and congratulated the club on success of a season in which members had brought in almost four tons of tye.

President Pete Karsholt welcomed the guests at the smorgasbord dinner in the Chandel Room of the Beaufort Hotel.

Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni and Mayor Loran Jordan of Port Alberni with their wives were among honored guests.

The Chamber of Commerce Trophy for largest fish caught by a lady member was won by Mrs. R. Wale. Alex Lecharity won the watch given by Janssen's Jewellers for the smallest tye of the season.

Nanaimo Candidates Sweating It Out Until Vote Recount

By PETER CASTER PAGE

NANAIMO — To be or not to be, that is the question uppermost in the minds of Dave Stupich, NDP, apparent winner in the Nanaimo riding of the recent provincial election, and Earle C. Westwood, Social Credit runner-up and apparent loser by 31 votes.

And neither will know the answer until the absentee vote has been counted.

According to Fred Spencer, recording officer for the district, the count will most probably take place on Oct. 15, the day after the Thanksgiving holiday.

Until then Mr. Stupich and Mr. Westwood have at least one thing in common. They are sweating it out.

Dave Stupich is no stranger to this situation. He has run for office three times before and except for the first time in 1949, when he lost decisively, the contests have been close. In both 1952 and 1953 he was leading at the end of the first count but with an insufficient majority under the transferable vote system to be elected outright. On both occasions he was ousted on the final count.

This time, with the transferable system defunct, his immediate political future rests on the political beliefs of a handful of absentee voters. Mr. Stupich is quietly confident of the outcome.

"Most of the absentee voters," he said, "are loggers, miners, fishermen and other out-of-town workers. This type of voter usually favors the NDP, but all the same I think I'll have my Thanksgiving dinner after the count."

Mr. Westwood, it would seem, is not quite so confident, for he was reported to have called for a recount on the night of the election. If true, he was jumping the gun because a recount cannot be held until the absentee votes are in.

Until then, both Mr. Stupich and Mr. Westwood will have to remain unwilling occupants of the same sweet box.

Part of the full day of farewell ceremonies by the Patricias was their ceremony at HMCS Naden when they readied for a farewell salute to their comrades-in-arms.

Fish Weigh Quarter-Ton

PORT ALBERNI — Two men in the same boat placed first and second in Alberni Valley Tye Club's main derby Sunday, with the first-place fish weighing only 12 ounces more than the runner-up.

Ed Shuttle's 37-pounder won for him a movie camera, screen and projector. Wallie Maxemko took the outboard motor, second prize and Brian Mahaffay won third prize, a camping outfit, for his 35-pound, seven-ounce catch.

Final event of the season, the derby saw most of the 100 qualified sports fishermen out on the inlet.

A total of 23 fish weighing more than a quarter of a ton were weighed in a Port Alberni derby during the dawn-to-noon derby.

Once in a While Things Work Out

PORT ALBERNI—Once in a while, things just sort of work out for the best by themselves. Last week Russ Bartrian lost his watch while letting out his line to fish in Alberni Inlet.

Sunday, at the presentation banquet of the Alberni Valley Tye Club, Mayor Fred Bishop made the draw for a $100 watch, a hidden-weight prize presented by R. & E. Crushing & Paving Ltd. Who was it? Russ Bartrian, that's who.

Dues Increased 55 Cents For 4,000 IWA Members

DUNCAN—Union dues for approximately 4,000 members of Local 140, IWA, will be raised from $4.15 to $4.70 a month after more than two-thirds of voting members gave their approval.

A union official said 70 per cent of the membership voted and it is the first union dues increase since 1957.

Local 140 IWA President Weldon Jubenville said, "I consider this a vote of confidence for the trade union movement. It is obvious that we can now

Nanaimo

Driver Jailed, Fined, Warned

NANAIMO — Charles Stephen Geary, Nanaimo, was sentenced Monday to 60 days in jail for driving while his licence was under suspension. He was also convicted on charges of supplying liquor to a minor and speeding.

He was fined $50 for supplying and $17.50 for speeding. Should the fines not be paid, he will serve a total of 90 days. Magistrate Lionel Beavor-Potts suspended Geary's licence for three years.

Police stopped Geary's car about midnight Saturday after clocking him at 60 miles an hour going through a 40-miles-an-hour zone in Parkville. In the car were a number of young people including two teenage girls. Some partly consumed bottles of beer were found.

Geary's driving licence had already been suspended earlier this year for a motor vehicle offence.

"If you appear before me again for driving while under suspension," Magistrate Beavor-Potts told him, "you will get a six-month sentence."

Camera Club Show

It's Technique That Counts

By TED GASKELL

The 200 examples of camera art at the Victoria Camera Club's 20th International Salon of Photography include work that many a brush-and-paint artist might be proud of.

With deliberate double and triple exposures, reversed color and black and white prints, the camera artists have created remarkable effects. Camera and enlarging techniques have produced sometimes in the same print—the power of oils and the softness of pastels.

Amateurs who believe their work is all done when the shutter clicks will find in this exhibition that the camera is only the start of the work. It's what has been done with the negative or print which makes the difference between the snapshot of Tom Fenetre, by R. Menard, and Wasche, by Dr. Hans Ulrich,

Light control in printing has been used to emphasize the seagull flying over New York, while the same technique has softened the sky scrapers to a smoky grey.

A still life has been made to look impressionistic by reversal of a color print; other color photographs caught the judges' eye by sheer composition values—such as A La Fenetre, by R. Menard, and Wasche, by Dr. Hans Ulrich, which is simply a picture of washing on two clotheslines. Feature of the exhibition is the quality of the photographs from the Orient, where soft colors and delicate lines

Yet in the photographs it has produced strong, almost stark realism.

The exhibition, which opened Sunday and was seen by 400 patrons, continues at the Art Gallery until Oct. 20.

Lack of Response Disappoints Firemen

NANAIMO — City fire department is disappointed by the lack of response to its call for house inspections during Fire Prevention Week.

The department offer to carry out safety checks in homes, at the request of residents, is still open. During the next few days fire hazard check cards will be given to elementary school children to take home.

Fire safety displays will also be given in various parts of the city.

With the coming of winter, Fire Chief Colin McArthur points out summer accumulations of rubbish, faulty chimneys and improperly stored inflammable liquids are a potential menace.

When cooler weather hits the city there will be the usual rush of calls for minor and major outbreaks of fire which could be avoided if citizens would allow checks to be made by the fire department. "There is still time," the chief said.

Art Show Changes Pictures

DUNCAN — The Crofton Art Group recently changed pictures in a permanent art show at the Duncan public library and assistant librarian Mrs. R. P. Dunlop said, "People appreciate the little show."

The little show was established several weeks ago and member-artists of the Crofton group presently displaying their work are: Mrs. Mae Worth, Lillian Postgate, Guy T. Hunter, Kathleen Long, Winnie Walton and Irene Beppie.

Spokesman for the group, Mrs. Worth said, "In case anyone is interested in purchasing pictures, Mr. Hunter should be contacted at Barnes Avenue, Crofton."

Drivers Escape Crash Injury

ALBERNI — Damage was extensive but injuries luckily were minor in a number of car accidents in this district during the weekend.

Lone car involved in a crash on Highway No. 4 on the east side of Alberni Mountain early Sunday sustained damages of about $700.

According to RCMP, driver Joseph Szep, Chemainus, failed to negotiate a left curve and his car crashed into a utility pole at 4:30 a.m. Approximately five miles east of the intersection of Alberni and Port Alberni highways.

In another accident Saturday night, Terry Berry of this district failed to negotiate a right curve on the west side of the mountain. His vehicle went into the ditch causing $400 damages. Again no one was hurt.

A car driven by Camille Chabot, Port Alberni, turned completely over and landed right side up after hitting a stump beside Beaver Creek Road. Damages amounted to $400 and Chabot and passenger Mervin Drabluk were both treated for facial injuries.

According to police, the driver pulled out to pass two cars ahead of him, just as the car he was following also pulled out. Swerving to avoid striking the other vehicle, MANILA (Reuters) — A bus plunged over a precipice killing 21 persons and injuring 38 others on Cebu Island in the southern Philippines.

Mill Blast

Gallantry Costs Hero Bad Burns

By MAY BALDWIN

CAMPBELL RIVER—A Victoria man was most seriously injured of five hurt here in a "black liquid" blast Sunday—because he turned back to help a fallen fellow-worker.

Kenneth McHugh, 33, of 435 Durban Road, Victoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McHugh, is in satisfactory condition at Campbell River Hospital with burns from the highly caustic liquid.

Also in the hospital are William Scott, utility man, and Joseph Bundy, shift engineer and former Campbell River village commission chairman.

NOT BURNED

Released after treatment were Jack McMuldroch, injured by the explosion but not burned, and Allen Rollins who was entering the plant at the time and who suffered cuts and burns to the face.

The explosion occurred at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the recovery plant of Elk Falls Paper Mills, a Crown Zellerbach subsidiary at Duncan Bay, two miles north of here.

LEFT PLANT

Witnesses said later that Mr. McHugh had left the plant following the explosion when he realized Mr. Scott was still inside.

He went back and found that the other man was hurt and unable to move.

Mr. McHugh ignored his own injuries to help Mr. Scott from the building.

SIFTING WRECKAGE

While cause of the blast had not been determined last night, a team of government, manufacturers' and company inspectors had spent the day Monday sifting through the wreckage of the boiler that exploded in a spray of the "black liquid."

Pending the results of the inspection, there was no indicated similarity between this explosion and one seven weeks ago in a recovery plant on the Mainland, when seven men were killed.

NEARBY SITE

Company officials were grateful that the blast occurred on a Sunday. On a weekday, its force would have been directed straight into an adjoining construction site where 30 or 40 men are building a mill extension.

No flames could be seen by first witnesses at the scene, but coils of thick black smoke belched from every crevice of the building.

This smoke hampered Campbell River firemen in containing the blast.

Couldn't Stomach His Spare Thumb

SCARBOROUGH, England (UPI)—Robin Gray, 20-year-old bricklayer, pleaded guilty to burglary Monday. He told the magistrate's court he needed money to have his thumb removed from his abdomen.

Gray said, and the prosecution agreed it was true, that 12 years ago his thumb was severed in an elevator accident.

A surgeon grafted an index finger to the stump of the thumb. Then, thinking the severed thumb might be needed some day, he grafted it to the boy's abdomen to keep it alive.

But, Robin told the court, the thumb on his tummy hurts, especially when he bends over.

He arranged for an operation to have it removed but found he couldn't pay for it. So he broke into a store and stole six cameras and a quantity of cigarettes.

The verdict: Two years on probation.

45 AND OVER BONUS PLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has unveiled the details of its $5,000,000 "experimental" program aimed at putting older unemployed workers back on the job.

The incentive is a bonus from the federal government of up to $75 a month for a full year, to be paid for all approved older workers who are given work and training under the new program. The program was first disclosed in the budget speech June 13.

Spelling out the program in a statement in the Commons Monday, Labor Minister MacEachen appealed to employers in Canada to create as many job opportunities as possible for unskilled workers in the 45-and-over age bracket.

WILL GIMMICK WORK?

Michael Starr, Labor minister in the previous Conservative government, accused the government of announcing policies before it had worked out programs.

"It now remains to be seen whether this new gimmick for the employment of the older worker will work out as well as it is hoped . . . or whether it will be just another flop in the gimmicks promoted by this government," he said.

STUDY SWEDEN

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said the program will have to be studied to see whether it "goes any distance in dealing with this problem." He suggested Mr. MacEachen visit Sweden to discover how full employment is provided there for all age groups. Mr. MacEachen said the program, which begins Nov. 1, is designed to assist long-term unemployed men and women older than 45 years to regain jobs and to secure new skills.

TWO-MONTH PERIOD

The incentive payments—50 per cent of the monthly wage paid or $75 a month, whichever is less—will be made to employers who hire older workers between Nov. 1 and Jan. 31, 1964. However, the payments will not be made until an eligible employee has been on the job for three months.

The incentive payments apply only to workers who are insured under the Unemployment Insurance Act. Public service workers at all levels of government are excluded, as well as domestic and farm workers.

Nightmare

Canyon Frees Victims

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (UPI)

The Barranca de Cobre, a copper canyon nightmare of steep cliffs and treacherous water, yesterday gave up unharmed 14 American adventurers, who had been feared lost and starving since Sept. 28.

Bush pilot Jesus Acosta Munoz said the 14 explorers, including two women and three Mexicans who went to their aid, emerged safely at the northwestern Mexican village of Creel, 160 miles west of Chihuahua.

The group from Utah, California and Pennsylvania entered the canyon Sept. 25 to gather scientific information.

A search by airplane, helicopter and burro began Saturday after James C. Dean of Salt Lake City, an original member of the party, stumbled back to civilization and said the adventurers were running out of food and might be lost.

Elk's Head May Be Live

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Granbrook

Mayor George Haddad bet Highways Minister Gagliardi an elk's head against a mess of kamloops trout and a pair of snowshoes that the 40-mile Salmon-Creston cutoff wouldn't be open this year.

Mr. Gagliardi says the cutoff will definitely be open next weekend, and "I'll hang the head in my shack out back."

But Mayor Haddad may have the last word—he's never said the head would be stuffed.

Vancouver Hoodlums

Party-Crasher Admits Kicking Girl in Head

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ervin Williams, 18, was given a three-month jail sentence Monday when he admitted kicking a girl in the head while 50 youths tried to crash her party Saturday night.

"This sort of offence by a small minority of teenagers has got to stop," said Magistrate Cyril White in handing down the sentence.

Williams admitted standing on the hood of a car and kicking Michele St. Denis, 17, in the head. She was taken to hospital for treatment of a severe bruise. Her brother suffered a three-inch laceration on the head from a blow by a beer bottle.

Williams was charged with assault and two counts of property damage.

HELD, PUNCHED

In another incident, Alex Henderson, 40, said he was held and punched by seven youths who attempted to crash a party in his home.

In another section of the city, 10 youths ripped fences and smashed a window and drainage at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, the adjacent Roman Catholic church and school and a nearby home.

Dreaded Poison Feared in Deaths

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—

A man and his daughter died Monday after eating smoked whitefish from a Kroger's supermarket and doctor feared the poisoning "E" strain of botulism produced had stricken several others.

A 42-year-old man lay in critical condition in hospital and a woman and her two children were in a condition "bordering on critical."

Kroger's ordered the suspected product removed from its 1,375 stores in 22 southern and midwestern states. The Food and Drug Administration in Washington said the packers had notified distributors across the U.S. to destroy all stocks of the smoked fish.

Cubans Fire On Castro But Miss

LONDON (UPI)—A British foreign ministry spokesman said yesterday the British ambassador in Havana reported militia anti-aircraft batteries recently fired by mistake on a nightseeing plane carrying Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Soviet Ambassador Alexander Alexeyev.

The plane was not hit.

Supply Bill Blockade Lifted by Creditistes

OTTAWA (CP)—The

recognition as third-largest opposition party in the Commons. He told the Commons he had found the committee was "not serious at all."

But he added that the Creditistes had confidence the government would solve the problem.

At that, a series of speeches by Creditiste members ended. A preliminary resolution to grant interim supply to the government to cover its October and November expenses was passed five minutes before the 10 p.m. EDT adjournment.

BILL RUSHED

Two minutes later the money bill, for a total $747,499,955, was introduced. With unanimous consent it was rushed through all three readings and was passed just at 10 o'clock.

The bill now goes to the Senate for approval.

The supply resolution had been before the Commons for three days and at the outset the 13 Creditistes led by Robert Chouette had said they would block the measure until they had been given the recognition they sought as third-largest opposition party.

Earlier Monday, after the government presented a motion which would have produced around-the-clock sittings of the Commons to break the blockade, Creditiste leaders indicated they would end their delaying tactics.

The recognition issue then went before an evening meeting of the 29-man privileges committee. As it was debated there, a series of Creditiste members continued speaking in the Commons, preventing passage of the supply resolution.

The commission said that disaster to a lesser degree also struck the Stellako River, a tributary of the Nechako in Northern B.C. where the total number of spawning salmon will exceed 100,000.

At the beginning of the season the runs of sockeye were 10 days earlier than usual. And because of a strike by B.C. coast fishermen the escapement was extremely heavy.

Mortality Heavy In Sockeye Run

VANCOUVER (CP)—A disastrous mortality rate among homing sockeye salmon has wiped out about 90 per cent of this year's escapement of potential spawners to the Chilko River, one of the major sockeye rivers of the Fraser River system.

This was disclosed by the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission Monday when it said of a total escapement of 800,000 sockeye, an estimated 720,000 died without spawning.

The commission said that disaster to a lesser degree also struck the Stellako River, a tributary of the Nechako in Northern B.C. where the total number of spawning salmon will exceed 100,000.

Quebec Bomb Death

Terrorists Jailed

MONTREAL (UPI)—Top

members of the bomb-terrorist FLQ were given sentences ranging up to 12 years in prison Monday in a brief trial punctuated by an unexplained explosion.

The loud report, which shook the courthouse building, came just as one of the defendants was being ordered to serve 12 years for manslaughter in the bomb death of a nightwatchman here last April 20.

But authorities indicated there was no evidence the blast was connected with the trial. The explosion was believed to have been set off by construction workers preparing the site for a new court house nearby.

Among the stiffest sentences were those for Gabriel Hudon, 21, a draftsman, and Georges Schoeters, a native of Belgium who admitted masterminding the FLQ's bombing activities here and elsewhere in Quebec province early this year.

Schoeters drew sentences totalling 18 years in prison on reduced charges involving the placing of dynamite. He earlier had been charged with non-capital murder.

Jacques Giroux, 19, a photographer, was given a total of 10 years for manslaughter and other charges; Raymond Villeneuve, a total of 12 years; and Yves Labonte, 19, a total of six years.

Most Kingston homes were without water for drinking and total damage on the island was expected to hit about $15,000,000.

Early reports from Haiti had listed Flora's death toll at more than 400, but the figure leaped dramatically Monday.

Citizens of Port au Prince were in fear of a new hurricane—Gerda—which weathermen there told them could be worse than Flora.

ENORMOUS DESTRUCTION

Tass, the Soviet new agency, reported from Moscow that an enormous number of homes had been destroyed in Cuba, and that tens of thousands of persons had been evacuated from the easternmost provinces to areas less severely hit. The onslaught was seen as an economic disaster because of crop damage.

SIX DEAD IN CUBA

Havana radio said at least six deaths had been confirmed in Cuba as a result of the hurricane, which early in its life killed 30 persons in Tobago.

In Jamaica, seven lives were lost as Flora's tailwinds hammered the island with floods, rain and gales. A family of three drowned in Kingston when their home on a gully bank was destroyed.
